LECISLATURE MEETS AND TAKES PROMPT HOLD OF WORK IN HAND

Roasts President McKinley for Appointing Negro Postmasters, and Then Listens to the Lengthy Message from the Governor.

MANY VERY IMPORTANT NEW BILLS WERE PRESENTED

War Between the Governor and the Legislature Is Formally Declared by Speaker Jenkins in Calling the House To Order--- Then the Members Get Down To Work---Prospect for a Lively Session---Senate Does Nothing.

The first day's session of the legislature resulted in a general declaration of war against all mankind, and, if the doings of the day are to be taken as a safe indication for the future, it is proper to announce right now that there is going to be a hot time in this neighborhood for the next two months. In calling the house of representatives to order Speaker Jenkins served notice on Governor Atkinson that the legislature would not tolerate any interference or be influenced by any sort of intimidation. He did not make any direct reference to the governor's announcement regarding a veto of the convict bill, but he said in plain English that the members were entirely able to attend to their own business, and that the governor would be sent for when he was wanted. This speech was liberally applauded, and the applause shows to how wide an extent the governor and the legislature have drifted apart during the recess.

Everybody was pugnacious. The echo of the speaker's gavel had scarcely died away when Representative Hall, of Coweta, introduced a resclution jumping on President McKinley for appointing negro postmasters in Georgia and blaming their occasional assassinations upon the white people of the state. Mr. Hall wanted to begin a war with the national republican administration at the very beginning of the session, and he was accommodated. The members debated his resolution for awhile, and the pcpplists and republicans together tried to kill it, but when the final vote came there was a clear majority on his side. So Mr. Hall didn't feel so bad about

The reading of the governor's message occupied most of the time of the short session, and the members gave unusually careful attention while the clerk was plowing through that formidable document. Most of its provisions were received with favor. At the conclusion of the reading the senate adjourned without attempting to take up any other business, but the house devoted the rest of its time to the introduction of new bills. The most important in the general flood were that which provided for co-education at the State university and another which repealed the extra $400,000 school appropriation. Most of the others were of purely local interest.

Both the house and senate will meet again at 10 o'clock this morning. country of its position in no uncertain

The members of the house were prompt gather, and at 10 o'clock there were but few vacant seats in the hall. The gallery was only about one-third filled, however, and the corridors outside were deserted. In the lobby were a number of the land boomers who have property to sell to the state as a site for a penal colony, but the gubernatorial candidates were not represented in person or by proxy. Attorney General Terrell's office across the hall was visited by many of the members, and Colonel Candler, on the floor below, kept open house, but there was much less politics in the atmosphere than one would expect. Several minor booms claimed the atten-tion of the members. Colonel John Milledge was an effervescent figure in both houses, and Judge Samp Harris dropped in to pay a social call. Pope Brown was in the senate for about half an hour, and Judge Turner, who is not averse to succeeding Judge Hart on the superior court bench, chatted with the members of the house while the governor's message was being read. Allen Fort paid a visit to the capitol,

Promptly at the hour of 10. Speaker Jenkins rapped for order, and, after the opening prayer and roll call, laid aside his gavel and came to the front to make a brief, but very earnest, speech. With the attention of every member and of all who were present who were not members, he

"Without Dictation." "Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: I extend you all a cordial greeting and wish you all prosperity and health. There are many grave duties which will come before you for consideration. I believe that you will discharge each one of these duties without dictation from any ource, and without fear, favor or affection. I recognize the fact that this branch of the legislature is one of the law-making powers of the state, and I recognize that you will meet your duties faithfully and fearlessly. "There is a shadow over this state that has almost grown into a cloud, and it has reached the home of every one within our orders. This shadow is low cotton, and I trust the legislature in looking about them and considering public questions will remember that agriculture is smitten at a vital point. I now declare the house of representatives duly convened and opened for the transaction of such business as may legally and constitutionally come before it.

The Hall Resolution. The first business in order was the swear ing in of Representative Pace, the new member from Newton county, who was ercerted to the desk by former Governor Beyrton. The oath was administered by Supreme Justice Fish, and Mr. Pace was assigned to the committees on general industry, education, finance, amendments to the constitution and rules. He had barely returned to his sear when there was a stir in the extreme right end of the hall, and Representative Hall, of Coweta county, arose and sent to the derk to be read a resolution. The members thought that it the senators were on hand for the first had something to do with the convict question, and were very much surprised when the clerk began the annumement of a very much surprised when were named as senate members of the vicious attack upon President McKirley organization. Buda Pest, October 27.—In the lower house of the Hungarian parliament today Baron Banffy, the premier, replying to Herr Francis Kossuth, son of the celebrated Hungarian patriot, who urged the government to "take advantage of the Austrian choos and try for Hungary's independence," declared that the ministry had no intention of turning Austria's difficulties unreasonably to the advantage f the Hungarians.

"The union of the two countries," he declared, "must be regarded as indissoluble. Should the Austrian constitutional system break down-which God forbid-the Hungarian government would be obliged to act independently regarding the joint questions of the customs and commercial treaty between Austria and Hungary and of the charter and privileges of the Austro-Hungarian banks."

Greater New York Campaign Shows New Features Every Day Now.

New York, October 27.-Cooper Union New York, October 27.—Cooper Union was never before the scene of such a strange political meeting, as that which took place there this afternoon. The majority of those at the meeting were women, and women from Murray Hill and Riverside drive and West End avenue at that. The women were adherents of the Women's Municipal League, which advocates the election of Seth Low, and the meeting they got up was designed to show what they could do in a political way, even if they did not have votes. The men who came in for hisses were principally Croker and Platt. Colonel George E. Waring, the street cleaning commissioner, called the meeting to order and introduced Mayor Strong as chairman. Mayor Strong said he was a dyed-in-thewool republican and had always voted the republican ticket, but it was because he loved the republican party that he proposed to vote against the republican ticket, clean out the Augean stables and place that party on a firm foundation.

The mayor then introduced James C. Carter, the eminent attorney. The women applauded the mayor liberally during his preceded by Carter as speech. They also cheered Mr. Carter as he proceeded to state to them what they should do to elect their candidate. When Mr. Carter mentioned the of General Tracy there were faint hisses and slight applause. Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford said that three years ago one man had throttled Tammany and brought it to the earth. It was too bad that Dr. Parkhurst was not Rufus Choate was received with applause

MASONS' MILEAGE NOT REDUCED

Grand Lodge Defeats the Proposition To Cut It Down.

SESSION WAS UNTIL MIDNIGHT

Warm Debate Between the Delegates on the Question.

IMPORTANT MATTERS TO COME UP TODAY

Report of the Finance Committee Will Contain Proposition To Reduce Fees Paid to Grand Lodge.

Constitution Bureau, Brown House, Macon, Ga., October 27 .- (Special.)-The Masonic grand lodge adjourned at midnight tonight after a most heated debate over the mileage question. The vote on the proposition to reduce mileage paid to delegates to the grand lodge was defeated by a close vote. This has been the livelies issue of the grand lodge session, and the delegates have worried away the greater part of the second day with highly exciting debate, which required a two-thirds majority to change the constitution to make this radical departure from the old rule of paying 10 cents mileage both ways to grand lodge delegates.

The proposition voted on tonight was t reduce the mileage 5 cents per mile, which would have saved the grand lodge about $4,000 annually. There was a general fear among the delegates that the money they saved would eventually go to the building of a Masonic orphans' home against which there is a general opposition among the Masons of Georgia It is not improbable that this issue having become mixed with the mileage question had much to do with defeating the proposition of reduction.

There will be several important matter embodied in the report of the finance committee to be taken tomorrow, one of which is the proposion to reduce the fees paid the grand lodge by subordinate lodges. At present the lodges pay $1 per capita annually on their membership. The propo-

According to the rules of the grand lodge the first business taken up this morning by the Masons of Georgia was the election of grand officers for the next term. There was considerable interest in the elections, though there was no particular contest, as it required but one ballot to re-elect all of the present grand officers.

There were several names mentioned for the place of grand master and on this election it was noticed that there were many votes at variance. Several prominent Masons received the consideration of the delegates and some of them were given a right good tilt in the race. As is known, it is against the laws of Masonry for there to be any candidates for offices, but the delegates have the right to vote for whomsoever they wish. It was in this way that ome of the votes were scattering.

Nevertheless there was not a sufficiency of votes to prevent Dr. J. W. Taylor, of Luthersville, from being re-elected grand thersville, from being re-elected grand master of the grand lodge of the state for the ensuing term. It had been thought by some of the Masons that he would not ac cept a re-election to this office in view of the fact that he was recently honored with the office of grand deputy high priest of the United States. The duties of this ffice, however, will not conflict with those of grand master of the state of Georgia. Grand Master Taylor accepted re-elec-

There was a lively little race for the place of grand secretary, Mr. Z. B. Moon, of Atlanta, opposing Mr. W. A. Wolihin, the present grand secretary, for the place. Mr. Wollhin was appointed grand secretary last March just after the death of his latary for a number of years. Mr. Wolihin has filled the place most satisfactorily and reditably since his appointment to the place and this, coupled with his father's ong record, made him a formidable candidate against anybody. The remaining grand officers not mentioned in this list were not named at the morning session

Macen's Waterworks in Court. The hearing of the Macon Gas Light and Water Company case, which was set for to-morrow in the federal court, will not like-ly be had, a postponement for two weeks being asked in order to consummate some of the details of the agreement entered in-to between the receiver and the security

This case is peculiar in some respects and has attracted no little attention here The property was taken charge of by the court and placed in the receiver's hands more than three years ago, under a peti-tion of some of the minority bondholders, and at the time the receiver was appointed the majority of the bondholders, through their trustees, the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York, protested against the appointment of a receiver in the case. The court held the petition a good one, however, and Mr. T. D. Tinsley, of Macon, was made the receiver of the court. The demurrer bill which was filed at the time of the appointment of the receiver has never been brought to a hear-ing, so the presumption is that the court's administration of the property has been satisfactory with the majority of the bond-holders, who at the time objected to the property taking that direction. The bondcolders meantime, have organized for the curpose of reorganization and taking the roperty out of the court without a foreclosure sale, but the condition of the water plant was such as required immediate attertion in order that it might fulfill its contract with the city, so the reeditors have agreed to have the receiver issue $100,000 of certificates and build with the McKinley Declines To Discuss the Document Until After Cabinet Considers It.

Washington, October 27 .- The event of he day at the state department was the receipt of the long-expected cablegram from United States Minister Woodford, at Madrid, transmitting the answer of the Spanish government to his representations in the interest of peace of Cuba. This message began to come in installnents at 2 o'clock last night, and it was noon today before it was all in hand at the state department.

It was not the length of the message that occupied the wires all of that time but the fact that it was all in groups of figures and that it was probably being filed in small batches as it was turned into the complicated state department cipher in Madrid. All of this work had to be done at the state department, and the message translated from the cipher back again into good English. This occupied nearly all of the day, so that it was halfpast 3 o'clock before the first fair copy of the message was turned out.

It was not so long; in fact, there was a little less than one thousand words in the message, for Mr. Woodford, instead of cabling the whole of the Spanish answer to his note, had contented himself with reducing the matter to a brief outline. The first copy was taken at once to the resident, not being entrusted to a messenger, but being delivered by Chief Clerk Michaels in person at the white house.

After due opportunity had been allowed the president to read the message an application was made for a statement of its contents or nature. This was declined by Secretary Porter, and it was said that under no circumstances would the correspondence be made public before consideration by the cabinet.

From unofficial information that has reached certain administration officials in advance of this message of Mr. Woodford's as to the nature of the Spanish reply, it is evident that in neither language nor subject matter is the communication likely to be taken as offensive by our government. It may be, it is true, regarded as insufficient to meet the issue presented by Mr. Woodford in his note, but officials of the state department say that in view of what has already been accomplished by the new Spanish cabinet in reforming abuses in Cuba, in removing Weyler, and in projecting what appears to be a liberal measure of automony, our government will certainly rest, at least until congress asembles, and afford the new Spanish government a reasonable time to carry out

DE LOME OUTLINES AUTONOMY. He Gives the Evolutions Through Which It Has Passed.

Washington, October 27 .- The Spanish minister. Senor Dupuy de Lome, consented for the first time today to speak concerning the policy of autonomy which the Spanish government proposes to apply to Cuba. This has been referred to in ger since the advent of the Sagasta ministry, but there has been lack of authentic details Before leaving for New York today, where the minister and his family will spend several weeks, Senor Dupuy de Lome gave the evolutions through which autonomy had passed, leading up to the present policy and the general outline of the policy itself.

Under the provisions of the treaty of %anjon, concluded in 1878 at the close of the last Cuban disturbance, it was provided that Cuba was to enjoy the same libertles as those accorded to the island of Puerto Rico. This latter island had the same libertles as those of any province of Spain. This brought the autonomist party, so called, into existence, its essential principle being that of self-government for Cuba, and not treating Cuba as a province of Spain, as was the system in Puerto Rico. That party adopted a platform and in 1886 offered complete programme of autonomy for the consideration of the country. A peaceful agitation of this autonomy prgramme was then inaugurated. In 1893, for the first time, a minister in liberal cabinet, Senor Maura, saw the mistake of that system of rule known as "assimilation," which treated Cuba as a Spanish province and he presented a plan of reforms. This was strongly oppos impossible to put the plan through the cortes. Then a compromise reform measure was framed which acknowledged the personality of Cuba as a separate body, but under the Spanish flag. These reforms having been considered insufficient, on account of the state of the Island, Premier Canovas proceeded to greatly enlarge them, his plan being, however, short of absolute autonomy. Now, Mr. Moret, minister of the colonies in the new cabinet, fulfilled the promise of the liberal party when it was in the minority and proclaims that autonomy as it had always been demanded by the home rule party of Cuba.

Under this policy as applied to Cuba, the island will have a system on the lines of those of Canada, or of the American states, maintaining its individuality on all international affairs and yet retaining its place as a part of the federal system. It will have a viceroy, or governor general, as is impossible to put the plan through the national affairs and yet retaining its place as a part of the federal system. It will have a viceroy, or governor general, as is always the case in the maintenance of a colonial system, such as that of Australia, New Zealand and Canada. The island will have its own legislature, chosen directly by the people, who will enjoy universal suffrage. From the majority in the legislature, the governor general will choose his ministry, consisting of a president of the ministry and four ministers, namely minister of the interior, minister of public works, minister of public instruction and minister of finance. At the same time Cuba will have representation in the Spanish court, and as well as her local legislature. The representatives to the cortes will also be elected by the people of Cuba, through universal suffrage and will not be selected by the ministry as has been erroneously stated. The ministry will be responsible to the legislature and not to the governor general. The subjects before the legislature will include those of taxation, tariff, public instruction and all matters of the international administration of the island, in the broadest sense of this term.

The attic was stored with old papers and documents, and within five minutes was a roaring furnace. The whole floor seemed to suddenly burst into flame in every part. During all the excitement seven young women employed in one of the inner mailing rooms on the fourth floor had not been notified and were still working, un-conscious of their peril. When they did discover their situation they found, to their borror, that it was impossible to reach the stairs, as the stairway was burning fiercely. They appeared at the windows and ery of horror went up from the streets. "The fire escape," shouted the crowd and the young women, comprehending, disappeared and a moment later climbed out on the iron platform of the escape. They hesitated but advancing flames gave them determi-nation and they started on their descent, eaching the street in safety as a thundering cheer went up.

With the first alarm the real estate agents, who occupied the lower floors, be-gan removing their books and papers. Everything that could be got out was taken across the street to the massive new Walnwright building. Fire Chief Swongley sent in a general alarm, but owing to the narrow street and the network of wires it required fifteen minutes to hoist and train the stand pipes. By this time the two top floors of the building were doomed and it was apparent that the fire had gained such a headway that the entire building must go. An or der was given to cut the electric wires Dense throngs blocked every thoroughfare Without warning the wires were clipped and in an instant the throngs were madly calling back as flashes of blue and yellow lightning sputtered from the ends of the deadly wires that came falling to the ground. nounced Decisions Yesterday. Washington, October 27 .- The interstate commerce commission today, in opinions by Commissioner Prouty, announced deci-sons in the cases of the Kentucky railroad commission against the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific Railway Company and the Southern Railway Com pany and A. J. Custin against the Illin Central Railroad Company and others. In the Kentucky railroad commission case rates for the transportation of wheat in car loads to Morristown and other points in Tennessee were higher for the shorter distance from Nicholasville, Ky., than for the longer distance over the same Nie, in the same direction, from Cincinnati, O., but the rates from Nicholasville are now not higher than those from Cincinnati. The commission has decided that the former rates were in violation of the long and short haul clause, but that the present charges are not, and that formal order in respect should not now be issued. In the Gustin case freight rates from Memphis, New Orleans and other se and southwestern points to Kearney, Neb. made up of rates to and from Omaha, were lawful, but no joint through rates were published or filed. The railroad companies either denied or did not admit that the shipment and carriage was continue and no proof was submitted by complain-ant showing that the carriers make a through route in fact by their course of business. The decision was that the commission has no power to compel a through route, and no issue of law or fact having been presented over which the commission has jurisdiction, the complaint should be

Has Smallest Export Trade. Philadelphia, October 27.-The sixty-third emi-annual convention of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association began this morning in the Philadelphia Textile school. The association in its membership is not limited to cotton manufacturer of New England, but embraces those other parts of the country. Nearly three hundred delegates were present.

Theodore C. Search, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, submitted a paper on the subject of "American Cotton Goods Abroad." Mr. Search can Cotton Goods Abroad." Mr. Search stated that the cotton goods trade of the world is practically in the hands of four countries, whose exports can be stated this: Great Britain, 1896, $332,331,000; Gernany, 1895, $47,742,000; France, 1895, $28,757,000;

The speaker drew a comparison between the export of Great Britain and this cou try and said the former, without a pound of native raw cotton, spins and weaves over per cent of the cotton goods that are urchased by other nations, while this country, producing over one-half of all the cotton grown in the world, supplies less than 5 per cent. The comparatively small ex-port trade of the United States, the speaker held, was mainly the fault of our man-ufacturers and their selling agents, who have failed to appreciate to the full extent ton goods.

The ore worked contains on the average appearance a very poor quality of gray rock. Mr. Edison states that there are 200,000,000 tons of this ore on the land immediately surrounding his plant, from ous and Will Be Put Forward.

COUNTY SEAT FIGHT WILL COMMENCE

War for the County's Capital.

THE JURGES WERE SICK AND TIRED OUT ATLANTA BAR MAY TAKE A HAND IN IT DISTRICT ATTORNEY ANGIER MAKES AFFIDAVIT

Both Towns Will Send Delegations To Push It.

The fight for the county seat of DeKalb will be actively carried on with the present session of the legislature. Decatur and Stone Mountain have been preparing for the contest since the decision of the supreme court, which awarded it to Stone Mountain, and many proofs have been obtained on both sides which go to show that the county site should be held at Decatur or Stone Mountain. Representative Henderson will introduce the bill which will provide for the moving of the county site to Stone Mountain and it will require two-thirds of the representathis number cannot be gained and it is doubtful if a majority could be had on the measure.

Mr. Morrison, of DeKalb, is supporting the Decatur side of the contest and the division of the representatives will give a large number of the other representatives an opportunity to vote as they think best for the interest of the county and not fol-low the precedent of that body, to vote on local bills according to the wish of the representatives from the county affected.

Many of them have not studied the ques ton and they have no opinions on the mat ter. They cannot be influenced by the representatives, as they do not agree, and it remains for the proof of the two sides to carry the question. This is said to be the reason so much time and care has been expended by the workers for each place in preparing their reasons why they should have the coveted prize The bill will not be introduced into the house until Colonel W. C. Glenn, who represents Stone Mountain, can be presen to argue it before the committee. He is now very ill and will not be out for some days, Mr. Henderson has prepared the measure and he will be heard from as soon as it is practicable. He thinks that there will be no doubt as to the passage of the act as the question has been determined once by the people and the supreme court has decided in favor of Stone Mountain when the election was contested.

They will present many reasons and argue that there is but one way the question can be decided and only one thing the members of the legislature can do. They will attack the showing made by the Decatur side, which will be in the form of a map of the county and petitions that have been circulated favorable to Decatur. They claim to have affidavits showing that the signatures to the petitions were unlawfully obtained and that a large number of them do not express the wishes of

Mr. Morrison said yesterday that the bill would not pass, as it would be very difficult for them to obtain a two-thirds vote of the house. He said he had talked to a number of the members and there was a great diversity of opinions, but thought that the predominance favored Decatur. Colonel Milton A. Candler, who is a strong supporter of Decatur, will argue the case before the committee if it is necessary. He said yesterday:

"It cannot be moved if the members of the house take into consideration the interests of the county. Everything is in

"We are very confident and believe we will have no trouble to show our side the grongest and that Decatur is the place for the county seat when all things are considered. As to the matter of an election and the people not voting, believing that staying away from the polls was the same as voting against removal, we can easily explain. We can prove conclusively that the people did not understand the law on the question and they misconstrued it. "With this before them, th emembers of the legislature, being free to vote their convictions as the representatives are divided on the question, can, it seems to me, vote but one way. Besides that we will present petitions with the names of 2,500 citizens of the county which will show that they are opposed to the removal to Stone "It would only require a few more than one-third of the vote of the county to de-feat an election for removal, but from our netitions we will show that there are at east two-thirds who are against the re thing, namely, that it should remain where

The representatives of Fulton county will have much weight in determining the location as a large number of the people from this county are interested in the lo-cation of the county seat and the lawyers of the Atlanta bar are strongly opposed to iny removal of the courthouse and the sult them in their business and during the terms of the court many of them have cases to try.

It is said that the bar will hold a meeting and request the representatives of this county to support the Decatur side, as it would be a great benefit to them to have it remain where it is and a loss to have it reroyed. The bar meets on Friday and will probably take action on it. they will probably take action on it.

Mr. Slaton said yesterday that if it was shown to him that the people were misded in regard to the election and its force he would favor setting it right before them or allowing a new election.

Mr. Knowles had not thought of the mathematical that he forced whether the leaf. ng about it. It is expected to be one hottest fights that the present ses-

> Interesting-Lack of Harmony Among the Republicans.

Major Smyth has something to say to Captain J. C. Hendrix. Yesterday Captain Hendrix had a card reflecting in a measure upon the newly appointed postmaster, whose commission he is endeavoring to hold up. Major Smyth comes back at Hendrix today and in doing so adds an interesting chapter to local republican political his-

from Captain Hendrix. This is embodied in an aff.davit made by District Attorney Angler, who tells of a deal Headrix wanted Angler to work. Hendrix wanted to be internal revenue collector. He saw that Smyth, having Colonel Buck's indorsement, stood in his way, so he had Angler feel of Smyth with a view to getting the major to take the chief deputyship at nearly double the salary that goes with that office. Hendrix was to make up the difference from his own pocket. Then he talked of "Smyth's honesty, skill and fidelity in handling money of the United States government." But Major Smyth didn't bite. The deal was not consummated and Captain Hendrix joined the ranks of "reformers"-those who wanted office and failed to land. Major Smyth's Card.

Here is Major Smyth's card to tell its "Atlanta, Ga., October 27, 1897.-Editor onstitution: In your issue of this morning there appears a communication from Mr J. C. Hendrix relating to the postmaster-ship, mainly referring to some statements made by your reporters, but containing some things to which I wish briefly to rethat he is mistaken in his insinuation that I got my friends to get all records against me out of the departments. Records so filed are not thus easily disposed of, and I am perfectly willing to stand upon my official record as found in the departments under which I have served. "The main substance of Mr. Hendrix's complaint against me is, that I have kept a 'profound silence' with reference to charges made against me. As my 'friends.' who have been so assiduously engaged for the last seven months in hunting up charges against me, have never been cour teous enough to furn'sh me with a copy of them, I have obviously had nothing upon which to base a reply. I have not considered it necessary, whenever there were irresponsible rumors of charges that were going to be filed against me, to rush into your columns to defend myself. When ever any specific charges have been against me, personally or officially, I have never kept silent, but have promptly met them. This the columns of your paper for the last thirty years will amply show, as will the records of the departments in

"Mr. Hendrix asks: 'Will the major say whether or not the facts (sic.) charged against him are true or false?' I am informed that one 'Chap.' Norris is the mud sill upon whom all these rumored charges are erected. If this be true, then I can emphatically say that all such charges are false. This I have successfully shown be-fore the grand juries of the United States court, where he repeatedly sought, but failed, to substantiate them; before the de-partments where he filed them, and before the public whenever they cropped out in the newspapers. If Mr. Hendrix has any other source of information upon which to base his charges, I think I can confidently assert, in advance of any knowledge of what their nature may be, that his 'facts' baseless charges emanating from 'Chap' Norris. "I do not know what Mr. Hendrix's idea is of friendship or enmity may really be, but it seems to me that when one's 'friends' are industriously laboring to bespatter him with mud and to break down his character, that even Job himself would not recognize what a comfort it is to have not recognize what a comfort it is to have such 'friends,' and that even their patriotic motives in only wanting 'men in office with clean official records' would fail to soothe his wounded feelings.

"The following brief affidavit may perhaps throw some light upon this praise-worthy desire on the part of Mr. Hendrix to fill the public offices with men of pure

BLIZZARD HEADS FOR ATLANTA

Coming This Way.

Mr. Marbury Says the Conditions Point to a Cold Spell Here.

Be a Heavy Fall in Temperature. Big Snows at Denver.

Down from the frozen north a blizzard is oming to Atlanta. The storm was at Denver, Col., yesterday and is fast flying this way, bringing with it the snows and chills of winter. Denver was struck by the blizzard yesterday and nearly $50,000 damage was done by the heavy snow and the cold winds. Up in Dakota there is an area of high parometer. This high barometer and low thermometer extends from the northwest down to Texas. In upper Texas It was freezing cold yesterday. Down near the gulf there is an area of low barometric pressure and a high temperature. Over in the northeast there is a high barometer and low temperature.

High barometers in the northeast nearly always pass off and give way to the low areas from the gulf. By tomorrow the high up on the eastern coasts will begin to retreat before the advancing storm area from the gulf and a low barometer will prevail in the northeast.

Then, like a hawk watching for a bird, the blizzard in the northwest will rush down into the vacuum left by the depar-ture of the area of low barometer. Snow may then fall in Atlanta.

The weather bureau officials stated yes-terday that the conditions were just right for a cold wave to come meandering down this way. Mr. Marbury explained that I the high passed off the eastern coast the low would naturally follow in its wake and the high in the northwest would pounce down toward the gulf to fill up with cold air the vacuum left by the warm air. A heavy frost will certainly fall in Atlanta before Sunday. The light frosts that have already appeared will then sink into

The weather map is now almost similar to that of last week when the cold weather was predicted. Then the weather officials here said that the passing off of the low barometric pressure to the northeast would cause a rush of cold air into this section. The prediction was verified. At that time the cold in the northwest was not very severe and the cold weve that struck At-lanta was only severe enough to bring a big frost and some nipping weather. People may now prepare for a hard spell of bad weather. The cold is certainly coming this way and there will have to be some unusual changes in the weather con-ditions to stop the blizzard.

PASSENGERS ARE STILL ABOARD German Steamer Polaria Cannot Be Reached by Life Savers. Norfolk, Va., October 27.—The German freight and passenger steamer Polaria, from Galveston, October 18th, for Hamburg, via Norfolk, which went ashore off Cape Henry last night, lies in practically the same position tonight.

None of her crew or of the small number of passengers aboard her have been landed, but the ship is resting easily and is in no immediate danger of breaking up. The life-saving crew has been strenuously endeavoring throughout the day to get a line to the stranded steamer. They have fired the Lyle gun nine times, but each time the shot carrying the line fell short of the ship. The heavy surf, which is being piled up by the wild northeast gale, has prevented their launch ng a boat.

Wrecking turs were sent from this city early in the day, and the Merritt Wreckearly in the day, and the sherritt, wrecking Company, which has the contract to float the Polaria, got a line to her from the tug Jones, which pulled on her unsuccessfully. She is now lying alongside, ready to render a'd in case the steamer should show signs of breaking up.

The idea of making a display of tobacc at the Tennessee Centennial did not occur to the Floridians until the latter part of September, which gave them less than month for the preparation of samples. The Tampa board of trade took the initiative steps in the promotion of the exhibit and in conjunction with Governor Bloxham, ap-pointed Leon J. Canova as commissioner to collect and display the exhibit. The time impossible, but a select and very compre-hensive line of samples were gathered these plants in their fuil vigor, with the velvety down on their leaves, was the subject of much comment. What excited greatest wonder, however, was the size of the full grown plants. The tobacco growers in the more northern states raise a heavier and larger plant, while that grown in Florida is cultivated more with a view to quality than quantity.

The Florida Sumarra leaf will average between 300 and 400 leaves to the pourd, while it is safe to say that the leaf grown in Tenressee and Kentucky will run less than thirty leaves to the pound. The growers of this latter could not comprehend how it was possible for 700 or 1,000 pounds of tobacco to be raised to the acre in Florida, and marveled still more when they learned that this was raised twice a year in our state, when with them one crop only is obtainable, and that does not exceed the Florida crop in yield of pounds to the acre. This is a great card for the Florida tobacco growers, because their tubacco will range in price from 25 to 40 cents a pound on a conservative estimate, and that of the Tennessee or Kentucky growers bring but from 5 to 12 cents a pound. These facts, therefore, will admit of no compromise between the two crops, for Florida stands pre-eminently in the lead on all points.

The method of cutting and pole-curing the tobacco was illustrated in another unique and attractive manner. Two stuffed Florida alligators, standing erect, held between them the stalk of a cabbage palm fan on which was strung tobacco cut according to the Cuban method and arranged for the pole-curing process. One of the alligators held a diminutive darky in his mouth, while the other clinched in his teeth a fragrant cigar made from tobacco crown at Fort Meade.

The tobacco that had passed through the more advanced stages of curing was displayed in ten glass cases and the sliky leaf was greatly admired by all who saw it. Cigars made from tobacco raised by the Cuban Tobacco Growers' Company and La Cosmopolita. Vuelta Abajo Tobacco Company, both of Fort Meade, testified to

of the lear, but at the control of the lear, but at the tion and provoked great curlosity.

The impressions created by this display of Florida tobacco, practically the first ever made, were sufficient to recompense this state more than a hundred fold for any expense or trouble accruing in making the display, in fact no effort ever made by Florida resulted in as much good for the state as this. COLORADO'S BLIZZARD CEASES.

Snowplows Are Necessary To Get the Trains Into Denver. Denver, Col., October 27.—The blizzard which began Monday night lasted until early this morning. During the night the storm gradually abated, and at 8 o'clock storm gradually abated, and at a color this morning the snow ceased falling. Not only did the storm cause universal discomfort, but it inflicted heavy pecuniary loss as well. In one item of broken tele-graph, telephone and electric light wires and poles, the damage foots up to $40,000. The Gulf was the only railroad that su eeded in getting a train over the division to Colorado Springs and Pueblo, and its officers are proud of the achievement. The Denver and Rio Grande succeeded in opening its main line last night.

Shortly after midnight a rotary plow, pushed by six engines, found its way into the Denver yards. It was followed by six passenger trains which should have arrived Denver at different hours during yesterstorm, and trains on them ran nearly on

But providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that not only completely restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every weakened man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an enthusicst, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of weakened manhood who would be cured at once could they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that although they cost nothing to get they are worth a forting to some men and mean a lifetime of happiness to most of us. Showed Other Tobacco Growing States What Florida Could Do-Display cepted. Washington, October 27 .- Attorney Gen eral McKenna today fully confirmed the statements heretofore made by the Assoclated Press as to the recent offer of the reorganization committee and its acceptance by the government, by which the full amount of the government's claim against the main line of the Union Pacific road principal and interest, is guaranteed. This amount is something in excess of $58,000,000 and includes outstanding government bonds issued in aid of the road to the amount of $19,076,512. Of this sum $15,919,512 becomes due on January 1, 1898, and $3,157;000 on January 1, 1899. Whether or not the re-organization committee's original increased bid of $50,000,000 holds good to a proportionate share as to the Kansas Pacific road, is an open question. The master in chancery fixed this amount at approximately $5,000,000, and the contention undoubtedly will be that the guarantee offer as to this amount holds good. This question, however, is regarded as of little or no consequence, as it is confidently expected that at the Kansas Pacific sale, which no doubt will take place on December 15th, the re-organization committee will bid up to the full amount of the gomery, for we are gure that a city pos-amount of the government's claim, it is almost certain that the government itself, acting under the authority conferred by the act of 1887, will be prepared to bid in the property. No such contingency, however, it is stated, is at all likely to arise, and the statement is made from high official sources that the net result of the deal with the re-organization committee will undoubtedly be the realization of the full amount of the Pacific and Kansas Pacific roads. The next move of the government toward final settlement of the whole bond-aided railroad question, it is said, will be pro ceedings against the Central Pacific road. The government has contended that this road is already in default and, therefore, subject to foreclosure, but in any event, it is said, the road must default on the Ist of next January.

On the 1st of the present month the Central Pacific's debt to the government aggregated $61,824,468, of which amount $35,939,-248 is unpaid interest, and the remainder

Montgomery People in LaGrange Hold a Meeting. LaGrange, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of the Montgomery refugees, who are temporarily residing in La-Grange, was held at the Hotel Andrews this afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of raising funds for the relief of the poor of the strucken city who cannot get away, and expressing their deep sympathy for them. Every Montgomery man in our city was at the meeting, and every one responded to the call for help, not only cheerfully, but as liberally as their purses would allow. Mr. E. J. Meyers, one of Montgomery's aldermen, was made chairman, and Mr. J. B. Chamberlin, secretary, of the meeting. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"To the Hon. Mayor, Board of Council and Citizens of LaGrange—The refugees from Montgomery now in your city take this means of expressing to you our most throwing open the gates of your city to us in this time of great distress while we have been shut out from nearly every city of the south. We are confident that the people of this city will never have cause to regret the action of the mayor and council in not putting a quarantine against Montgovernment's claim and the first mortgage bonds.

Their interest, it is said, would compel them to do this.

Washville Will Be Alive This Morning When Atlanta's Delegation Scatters Through City-Atlan-

Fully two thousand Atlantians left yesterday and last night for Nashville, where they will participate in Thomas day and Atlanta day exercises at the Tennessee

It was a splendid delegation which left last night. Hundreds of the best known and most active citizens joined in the crowd and will make a display in Nashville which will reflect great credit upon Atlanta. Today will be the climax of the Centen nial. The great crowd of Atlantians will help to make the day a memorable one in Nashville, and while the big show will not come to a close until the end of this week, today will be the biggest of all and will practically wind up the big festivities. It is proposed to cap the climax in point of attendance, enthusiasm and brilliancy of display, and the Nashville people wanted the assistance of Atlanta in doing that. And Atlanta responded nobly. The big crowd, bedecked with pretty badges, handsomely uniformed and looking dapper, trim and neat, boarded the cars at the union depot last night confident of conquest in Nashville today. Bright and early the trains will begin to roll into the Centennial city and by good breakfast time the eight fine special trains bearing the Atlanta party will have halted at the Nashville depot. There was a great crowd about the union depot last night to see the delegation off to Nashville. The union depot, Wall and Whitehall and other streets adjacent to the depot were packed with men and women who cheered the city's representatives as the different trains pulled out. There was some delay in starting the specials, but everything finally moved along smoothly and the crowd was handled satisfactorily.

Departure of the Military Train. It was shortly after 7:30 o'clock when the Fifth regiment assembled on Marietti preparatory to marching to the depot. Headed by Major William J. Kendrick and the Fifth Regiment band mand of Professor Wedemeyer, the nt marched down Marietta and Decatur to Pryor and then to the east end of the depot, turning in the shed and boarding the special train of fourteen cars and sleep-The band struck up "Dixie" in fron of the Kimball and a great shout went up from the crowd in the street and on the sidewalks watching the soldiers march.

The military train was the first to leave It was scheduled to depart at 8 o'clock but several causes kept the train back un til 8:40, when it pulled out amid shouts and cheers by the soldiers and the good-humored crowd on the streets. The streets and denot presented a lively scene when the two big engines attached to the special began puffing and pulling and started on road to Nashville. The train consisted of ten coaches and four sleepers. The m'litary boys occupied the coaches and the Governor's Horse Guard in a special sleeper, bearing the name of the pany and other appropriate banners. Nos. 236 and 40. The next train to leave was the regular n'ght passenger, of twelve cars and sleep-ers. This train left at 8:50, carrying the Capital City Club sleeper, the Fulton Club sleeper, Judge Tompkins's private party, the private car of the Georgia and Ala bama and many citizens. It was a fine train and well crowded.

The third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth trains left the depot at intervals of ten and fifteen minutes, each carrying a big crowd of people. The late trains were composed of coaches and sleeping cars, and more than twenty-five sleepers were crowded to the top. Coach after coach was filled by the anxious crowd and it was a great rush for seats made the crowd. The people were handled the road officials without trouble, and by the crowd. under the direction of General Passenger Agent Charles E. Harman and Superintendent McCollum and Assistant Superinten-dent Evans, the trains pulled out without much delay and to the satisfaction of the

Quite a large crowd went up on the early train sesterday morning, the train consisting of twelve cars and sleepers and all of them were crowded. It required two engines to pull the train and the same was of all the trains leaving last night.

English heard of the proposition to break up the programme arranged here whereby all of the Atlanta soldiers, police, firemen, and officials were to march in one solid division there was a confere the result was that an ultimatum was tel egraphed to Nashville. The Atlanta party insisted that all of the Atlanta delegation emain together in the march and a worded message was sent to Nashville. It was understood all the time that Atlan-ta's crowd would march together and the novement to send a delegation was started with that idea in view—of showing off Atlanta to the best advantages. To separate the delegation would destroy the purpose of the trip and would spoil the effect of Atlanta's big crowd.

No reply had been received from Nash-ville last night, but a prominent officer of the Fifth regiment stated that Atlanta would stand pat in Nashville and insist that her delegation be not separated. I was believed that there was some misun-derstanding about this matter and that the wishes of the Atlanta delegation to remain together will be respected.

The big parade in Nashville this morning will be one of the largest of the centennial. It is probable that the greatest crowd which has yet visited the centennial on any one day will be in Nashville today to pay honor to Hon. John W. Thomas, pres ident of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad and of the centennial All of the railroads centering in Atlanta sent delegations last night to pay their respects to Mr. Thomas, and all of the towns and cities along the line of the road from Atlanta to Nashville and from Nashville to Hickman, Ky., the western terminus, will send delegations to Nashville to-

The firemen will be dressed in their new winter uniforms and will wear white gloves. On the lapel of the coat of each one of them will be a large chrysanthemum. vary one half inch in size.
With their new uniforms, white gloves and pretty chrysanthemums the firemen will make a fine appearance. The men who are going are among the best looking fire addies, and though they march but seldom their military appearance will undoubtedly ttract attention.

There will be nine fours of them under the command of Chief Joyner, who will walk in front and give the commands. ed for Today. Nashville, October 27.-The official figures show that the attendance yesterday at the Centennial exposition was 14,567. Today and night the attendance has been much greater and will reach 18,000, if not 20,000. Eight special trains, every coach crowded in addition to crowded regular trains, came in today and the rush has hardly commenced.

Tomorrow morning every available car will be in use bringing visitors from all parts of the state and from some of the adjacent states to participate in the cele-bration of President John W. Thomas cay. All irdications point to the assembling at the exposition the largest attendance of the exposition the largest attendance of any day during the exposition. The arrangements for the celebration of the day exceed those prepared for any previous day in magnitude, diversity and interest. An immense parade of citizens, Third United States cavalry and Fifth ders and societies, representatives of the business and industrial interests, the rollee, fire and other city departments, visitors and organizations from other states will form in the city, march to the grounds and there be reviewed by President Thomas. ## TAPPAN CHARGED WITH THEFT

Well-Known Young Man of This City | Father Who Shot His Little Son Is Arrested Yesterday.

HE WAS A TRUSTED CLERK

Charged That He Was Implicated in Big Carpet Steal.

THE FIRM SAYS IT WILL PUSH THE CASE Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company Are the Losers—How the Case

Was Made.

Earle J. Tappan, who is quite well known in the city and who has always berne a good reputation, was arrested yesterday on the charge of larceny from the house. It is charged that the young man is guilty of a number of petty thefts that have been going on in the firm of the Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose Company for a period of several months.

Tappan is said to have confessed his guilt and about $60 worth of rugs lave been recovered. There is more to follow, according to those who are interested in the case, but it is not thought that the entire amount will exceed $100.

Tappan was taken before Justice Foute yesterday afternoon, where he gave a commitment bond in the amount of $300, and a day was set for his preliminary hearing. The young man is said to have confessed his guilt and in doing so is alleged to have implicated several others, for whom policemen are at present searching, and it s highly probable that they will be arrested this morning.

The arrest of Earle Tappan taused a good deal of amazement in the city among his friends yesterday when the fact became known. He has lived in this city since his birth, and until the present time not a whisper of anything derogatory to his character has ever been heard.

He has many friends, all of whom are people of considerable means, and while Tappan himself was known to be in only moderate circumstances, yet he has moved in the best of society on account of his gentlemanly bearing.

He is the son of Mrs. William L. Tappan and resides with his mother at 261 East Cain street. He is the nephew of Mr. Clarence Tappan, of the firm of Tappan & Co., the grocers. These very facts-that is, that he is well connected and had been well reared-were responsible for the trust that was imposed in him by the firm which he is charged with robbing.

About three or four months ago Tappan applied at the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBos Company for a position, and his application was accepted. He was given a position, but on account of his ability he was soon promoted, and at the time of his arrest he was in charge of the stock in the carpet department.

In this position it was his busines keep charge of all of the goods in that department and to report all losses and sales of goods. It was soon discovered by hose in charge of the affairs of the firm that there was a leak somewhere.

Everything possible was done to discover the guilty one, but all efforts were in vain. The matter was then turned over 'o the police department, and in a short time cyldence was discovered which led to the belief that the guilty parties had been

The policemen, however, bided their time and then commenced to arrest. Tresday two white boys, Robert Langley as W. FARMERS TO HOLD MEETING. Will Discuss Plans and Methods of Marketing Cotton Crop.

Columbia, S. C., October 27.—(Special.)—President Wilbern, of the State Farmers' Alliance, this evening issued this call to the Alliance, this evening issued this call to the farmers and cotton growers:

"As president of the Farmers' State Alliance organization of this state, I have been requested by numbers of the representative members of the organization to take the initiative in calling a meeting of the farmers of the southern states, with the view to suggesting some action in the future, looking to the regulation of the acreage of cotton, also to discuss the plans and methods of marketing the cotton crop, so that the producers of this great staple shall receive the real value of the crop, and not be forced to sacrifice the crop by unfair combinations, together with the manipulations of the gambling cotton exchanges of the country aided by the unjust accumulation of all the money of the country at one center at the principal time of the year when our cotton is going into market.

"With these objects in view I desire to

"With these objects in view, I desire to request the cotton growers of the various counties in this state to meet on salesday in November and select one or more delegates to represent them at a meeting to be held in this city of Columbia, on Wednesday, November 10th, for the purpose of discussing the matters mentioned above."

JURY ACQUITS THOMAS M'CLAIN

Found Not Guilty.

THE TRIAL WAS VERY BRIEF

The State Failed To Make Out a Suf ficient Case To Convict.

VERDICT WAS REACHED IN HALF AN HOUR

Defense Was That the Tragedy Was Result of an Accident-Swore He Did Not Intend Injury.

Thomas J. McClain spent last night with his family for the first time since he fled from his house with a smoking pistol in his hand while his little five-year-old son writhed in agony on the floor, and the doctors shook their heads as they examined the ragged wound which had penetrated the little sufferer's temple.

"I never intended to harm a hair of his head," said the father as he looked earnestly down into the faces of the jury yesterday afternoon, "I did not shoot a my boy. The pistol was out of order, and while I was fooling with it the hammer snapped and slipped through my fingers. The bullet sped like lightning, and I say my boy fall to the floor. He was my oldest son, and I loved him more than a father generally loves his children.

"When I saw him fall and the blood gushed out from the wound, streaming down his face and dyeing the floor crimson, I was beside myself. I fled from the room as I would from a horrible apparation. There was a mist before my eyes, and I was wild. At the door I paused a ent. The sight was more than I could stand. I recollect hearing the screaming of women, the agonized cry of my boymy own child. I saw the blood flow faster and the crimson stain grow larger. My God, I was crazed with pain and agony, and I fled from the place. I ran, where, I did not know. I went to my brother-inaw, and he brought me back to the city, and I was going to give myself up when the police arrested me."

McClain would have said more, but he could not speak for his emotion. His frame trembled with excitement, and from his yes tears poured unbidden. for it had been out not more than thirty minutes when the foreman knocked on the door and annouced that a verdiet had been reached. It was a verdict of not guilty and declared that McClain had suffered

The scene was dramatic when Solicitor Hill read the vardict in the crowded courtcoom. The spectators craned their necks forward to catch the words which fell from his lips.
"We, the jury, find the defendant not guilty," read the solicitor.

"Thank God for the verdict," said Me-Clain, half to himself and to his counse "Thank God that the truth has been found

The trial of the case consumed but two hours, and it had progressed only a step or two before it was seen that the state Rad failed to make out its case. There were no witnesses who saw the pistol pointed at the child; none testified who heard the father make any threat; nobody saw the pistol when it was fired. In fact, there were no witnesses who could be of real assistance to the state, and on the di rect cross-examination nearly every witness became a witness for the defense

Testimony of an Expert. The first witness introduced was Dr. Strickland, a member of the staff of the Grady hospital. Dr. Strickland a the surgical operation recently performed upon little Willie McClain, and h given the management of the little boy's

When the child was brought to nospital," testified the surgeon, "we found him seriously, we thought at first fatally, shot. There was a fearful wound in his left temple, and we soon discovered that the skull was pressing upon the brain.
"So serious was the wound that an operation was necessary, and the operation consisted in trephining the skull and removing certain substances from the brain, The child is now partially recovering, He has but little use of his right limb, and can use his right arm but little. He is now able to respond to the nurse when sh calls him, but he can speak but few words so they can be understood."

Dr. Strickland was asked if the paralysis could have been caused from other things than the shot. He replied in the affirmative, but declared it was his opinion that the present condition of the sufferer was entirely the result of the wound in the left temple.

Story of an Eye Witness. "Bring in little Annle Pillingsby," said Solicitor Hill to the court bailiff. A little girl with short dresses, her hair tanging down her back, was shown to the witness stand. She was too young to be acquainted with the ways of a criminal court, but she was calm, and she told her story of the shooting in a straightforward After telling the solicitor she was only count of the tragedy:

"Uncle Tom," pointing to the prisoner to identify him, "was lying on the bed, and we little children were playing in the room One of us bumped up against his pistol, which was in his pecket, and told him that it was warm. He then told us not to get close to the pistol, as it was danger ous. He then took his pistol out of his pocket and was playing with it. when Willie said his pa had been drunk.

"Uncle Tom said he was getting tired of all of that, and pointing the pistol up, told Willie to look into the barrel and see which way the bullet would go if he were to shoot.

'You wouldn't shoot that boy, Tom and you know it,' said Uncle Tom's wife "Uncle Tom then told her to look into the harrel and see which way the bullet would go. She told him that it would either go over her arm or would go under it.
"While Willie was climbing down from the supper table the pistol fired and he fell. Uncle Tom picked up his hat, and carrying the pistol in his hand, left the room. I did not see him again until the next morning at 9 o'clock, when Mr. Pitt-man, his brother-in-law, brought him home in his buggy.'

State's Case Was Weak. Before the examination of the little gir had been completed it began to appear that the state would fail to make out a case against McClain that would result in con Although several eye-witnesses were examined, none saw the pistol when it was fired. They declared that McClain, who had been drinking some, was in a good humor, apparently, and that he made no threat and pointed his pistol at no one only telling them in a jocular manner to look into the barrel.

The defense proved that McClain was a quiet and peaceable man, and that his reputation was good. It was also shown by a witness by the name of Moon that the pistol did not beong to McClain, but was loaned to him by the witness. "It was in bad order," said the witness, and would not work well. If you pulled the hammer back it would slip and would snap. I forgot to tell him about this when loaned him the pistol, and I see he found

It out all too soon." th the witnesses for the state and for the defense swore that MoClain was in the buggy and was being carried toward the police station when officers arrested him. The officers testified that McClain told them that he was going to give himself up when they first saw him McClain was represented by Attorneys Cobb and Stewart, and the state was represented by Solicitor Hill.

Governor's Annual Message Sent

MANY MATTERS TREATED OF

An Able and Complete Presentation of

to the Legislature.

Educational Matters and the Penitentiary System-The Railroad Commission and Its Powers. Taxes and Money in Elections,

The governor's message is an able and forceful presentation of the issues that present themselves for the decision of the legislature, as well as a review of the workings of the state government during the months that have intervened since the legislature adjourned.

It contains much that is valuable. The convict question is discussed at length, but this feature is not new. The governor having expressed his views so fully in his special message, which was given out at the time of the meeting of the joint peuitentiary committee, he embodied that just as it was in his message to the legislature. His views upon this subject have been so fully presented by The Constitution, it is not necessary to quote this por-

Considerable space is devoted to a discussion of the lynching evil. This is one of the most notable features of the message and is sure to attract widespread attention. There is a discussion and arraignment of the use of money in elections; the educational progress of the state is dealt with in an interesting manner, and the governor has something especially vertirent on the necessity of selecting teachers for the colored schools; he advises that the power of the railroad commission be increased according to the recommendation of the commission; bucket shops are artaigned; the university is praised, and the excellent work being done by the Technological school is dwelt on; and all of these matters which should receive at-tention from the lawmakers are treated in a clear-cut and comprehensive way. The Northeastern and the State.

The state's experience with the lessees of the Northeastern railroad is explained and a table showing the net profits under the maragement of Colonel Reaves, the state agent in charge, is given. This shows net profits for the four months of May, e, July, August and September of $6,-4. Of the outlook for the future, Governor Atkinson says:

"The months covered by these reports are the hardest of the year, but it is gratifying to be able to state that they show an increase over the earnings in the same period when previously operated by the state.

"Under present conditions we can safely rely upon (the net earnings of) the road earning a good income on the sum at which it was purchased by the state, to-wit, $100,-000; and it will more than pay interest on the series of bonds issued to retire the $25,000 of bonds on said road, upon which the state of Georgia was indorser.

"As this is a short and dependent line and in view of possible changes in the rediread situation, which might impair and possibly destroy its value, I recommend that an act be passed authorizing the governor, at his discretion, to offer it for sale whenever, in his opin'on, it can be sold for the amount of the bonds issued by the state to cancel the series above mentioned.

The Railroad Commission. The Railroad Commission.

The recommendations of increased power

The recommendations of increased power for the railroad commission are:

"Cohtrol of issuance of stocks and bonds of railroads.

"Removal of all doubt of authority of the commission to require the erection of depots, and additional power to require the construction of sidetracks.

"Power to regulate the interchange of freights and cars in order to secure to shippers the right to route their goods and to prevent discriminations.

"Speedler methods of enforcing the orders of the commission to compel railroads to immediately accord to the public rights which are due them."

The governor also thinks that street railroads and telephones should properly be placed under the supervision of the com-mission just as railways and telegraphs

On Educational Matters. Governor Atkinson notes a "constant and marked improvement in our common schools." He congratulates the people upon "the ever increasing prosperity and weefulness of their university" and refers the legislators for the details to the report

He speaks of the increased attendance and the great usefuiness of the School of Technology and makes an interesting suggestion about the necessity of a department of textiles. On this he says:

"Georgia, being near the center of the cotton growing area of the union, should provide for the instruction of her sons in the manufacture of cotton goods. New England has taken steps in this direction for the protection and advancement of her manufactures. The textile schools which have been established at the north are bound to militate to the detriment of our own cotton industries unless they are met with similar institutions in the south. A department of textiles should be added to the School of Technology for the purpose of giving our young men the opportunity of becoming experts in the manufacture of cotton goods. I am assured that such a measure would receive substantial aid from many prominent firms and citizens, and on account of the present excellent equipment of the school, the first cost would be reduced to a minimum."

He tells of the crowded condition of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college at Georgia Normal and Industrial college at Milkdgeville, how several hundred appli-cants have been turned away because of lack of room and recommends that, Inasmuch as the graduates of the branch col-leges are permitted to teach in the common schools without further examination, the same right be extended to graduates of this institution whose course of study is con-siderably in advance of the examinations given applicants for first grade license to each in the common schools. He recommends two additional trustees

REPRESENTATIVE HALL.

He has a grievance with the president of the United States and says so.

"Positions should not be awarded to men on account of the wealth they possess. The power and political influence of men should not, in the smallest degree, be measured by money, but by their moral and intellectual worth. The history of this country gives ample proof that the best service has been rendered the republic by men whose study of questions affecting the public had so far monopolized their time that their own possessions were small.

"The proposed measure should be sufficiently comprehensive to specify the purpose for which money can be used in a campaign in a party primary or final election, and free officials from that obligation, which is incurred by personally receiving from others a contribution to ald in securing an election.

"If, for instance, candidates for the office of sollcitor general, judge and United States senator are permitted, by direct contributions, to place candidates and the party authorities, in the respective counties, under direct obligation to them by contribution to campaign fund, it will degrade political life, put capacily and worth at a discount, and make money the test of merit. The influence of money in politics is already too great, and should be promptly reduced to a minimum.

"All contributions for political empaigns should be made direct to the party officials, and no man, not a resident of a county, should be permitted to contribute to the county election. To prevent undue influences of money from this source, such contributions should, in congressional campaigns, be given to the district committee, and in state campaigns to the state committee, to be by them expended where they think best for the Normal school at Athens, because of the desirability of having some of the trustees in close proximity to the institu-Trustees of State Institutions. On the subject of trustees of state institutions the governor mailes an important suggestion. He says: "The trustees of the Sebool of Technolo-palgns, be given to the district committee, and in state campaigns to the state committee, to be by them expended where they think best.

"To encourage worthy men who do not possess wealth, to secure a fair submission to voters of questions involving governmental policy and personal merit, to avoid the debauching of politics by the nower of money, to guard the purity of the public service that kovernment may merit the respect and confidence of the people, I earnestly ask that prompt action be taken to avoid the disastrous results which must follow the evils to which I have called you attention. Lynching and Convicts.

What he has to say about lynchings is treated under another head.

On the necessity of a betterment of the penitentiary conditions he gives his views at length. He advises inspection by the state authorities of misdemeanor camps; shows the importance of wealing with this penitentiary problem at this session: declares his ungalified opposition to the pres-ent lease system, and reiterates his declaration that he will veto any bill re-enacting the lease system; points out how it is im-practical to work the convicts on the roads, and gives his ideas of a proper system of penitentiary management as already out-lined in The Constitution. With this he recommends the creation of a board of par-

The Equalization of Tax Returns.

The Equalization of Tax Returns.

The equalization of taxes is discussed at some length. On this he says:

"In my message to the general assembly in 1885; in discussing the need of a new assessment law, I said:

"In reference to the value of property as shown by the comptroller general's report, gathered from tax returns, it is my duty to say to you that it does not approximate the real or market value of the property of the citizens of the state subject to taxation. Under the present system of making tax returns, outside of where the returns are affected by local assessment systems of towns and cities, each man is his own tax assessor and places upon his property such value as he sees fit, even mimself in many instances confessing that the amount at which it has been returned by him for taxes bears no approximate relation to the real value of the property. While the legislature nominally fixes the tax rate for the state to be collected from her citizens, each citizen has the power to fix his own tax rate, and many of them do fix it at an unjustly low rate by placing a value upon their property far below its value and on a scale much lower than that by which the property of their neighbors is valued. The man who pays taxes upon property unfairly valued at $500, while on property of the same value his neighbor pays on $1,000, is iowering his own tax rate one-half, depriving the state of its just revenue, and placing an unjust burden upon his honest neighbor who values his property correctly.

"I most earnestly recommend that some county and county matters.

"I most earnestly recommend that some plan be divised by which the state can arrive at something like a just valuation of the property of its citizens subject to taxation, and protect the man who honestly returns his taxes against imposition from those who return their property at an improper valuation. It is well to bear in mind that any plan which you may adopt will, when put in practical operation, prove imperfect, but as these defects appear it will be the duty of your successor to correct them and continue to perfect the law. Certain it is that no system which can be adopted can be open to greater abuses or more flagrant injustices that the law under which our property is now returned for taxes. A proper plan for assessment of property for taxation will not only equalize values, but place upon the tax books a vast amount of personal effects which now escape taxation."

He Discusses Question at Length and Suggests Changes in Law.

Assault with Intent To Rape Should Carry Death Penalty.

Counties Should Be Responsible in Money Damages for the Lives Taken by Lynchers-Able Discussion of Important Matters.

Governor Atkinson discusses the lynch ing evil at length. That portion of his message dealing with with the subject is a strong and forceful presentation of the facts bearing upon lynchings, their cause and their effect, and contains some highly important recommendations. Of such timely interest is the discussion and of such value are the recommendations that The Constitution presents that portion of the message in full. It is as follows:

"The graver crimes are of alarming frecrime of burglary, arson and rape hav order of ourgiary, arson and rape nave become more frequent than in the years of disorder which followed the civil war. "The frequency of the offense of rape has become alarming in the extreme, and seriously interferes with the security and comfort of living in the country. There are for rape.

"It is the duty of government to protect its citizens, and to do all that can possibly be done to prevent the commission of not only the offenses which have provoked the people to resort to such a reprehensible remedy, but all offenses, and to guarartee to every citizen charged with crime a trial before an impartial tribunal as gustanteed by the constitution.

and responsibilities of so important a position.

"If the same population had been placed among the people of any other section of the union, they would have the same problem to deal with which now confronts us, and would find just as much human nature cmong their people as is exhibited by ours.

"Notwithstanding the anomalous condition which exists here, our people deplore mob violence, but should be more determined in insisting upon leaving to courts and juries the punishment of violators of the law.

"If defects exist in the law, the remedy is not to ignore and violate the law, but to amend it. The citizen cannot be justified in trampling upon law and assuming the functions of judge, jury and executioner.

Innocent Man Lynched. 'The mob is not a safe tribunal to justly

"The mob is not a safe tribunal to justly determine any cause.

"Not long since, in this state, it is said that a mob, which had gathered, falled to take action because of a division in their own ranks. one portion wishing to hang a man who had not been tried, and the other, to liberate one who had been tried, heard in all the courts and sentenced to be hanged for murder.

"The mob judges without a full and complete hearing from both sides. Its members are not the most capable of judging. It decides in passion and, too often, in whisky. How can it fall to make mistakes and sacrifice the lives of the innocent?

"I feel the more deeply upon this question because from the best information I can secure. I believe that during my administration there have been in this state several men lynched who were not guifty of the crimes with which they were charged. How many, can never be known, for their tongues are hushed, and they are denied an opportunity to prove their innocence. I am informed that one man, whom the mob believed to be guifty, was shot down. A question then arose as to his identity and he was salted down like a hog, shipped to the location of the crime and found to be the wrong man—an innocent man.

"When an innocent man is lynched for a crime it serves to protect the guilty. The members of the mob, their friends, and sympathizers seek to impress it upon the community that the right one has been punished and the guilty goes unsought and unsuspected. Even during this year, evidence has come to light, showing that in several states victims of the mob have unsuspected. Even during this year, evidence has come to light, showing that in several states victims of the mob have been innocent men. During my term of office one man, who was rescued from the mob, was accorded a trial which fesulted in showing that he was not guilty of the offense with which he was charged. Another fled from the mob to the executive office, and asked for protection, and a trial by jury. They were given him, and it developed that he was not guilty of the charge for which the mob endeavored to take h's life.

Innocents Have Narrow Escapes.

Innocents Have Narrow Escapes.

'To what extent this practice has been cr will be used for purposes other than the alleged reason given to the public will never be known. In one instance, not long ago, it was stated and accredited that a man who had been charged with rape came near being lynched When the truth became known it brought to light the fact that the purpose in preferring the charge was to have him lynched in order to suppress his evidence against parties who had been violating the prohibition law. In another instance a man, charged with an assault upon a woman, escaped the mob, which was in pursuit, and established the fact that the charge was made against him to defeat the collection of a debt. Had the parties been lynched it is not probable that their guilt would have been questioned.

"These things serve to emphasize the importance of adhering to law, and of your so legislating as to suppress this evil, and guarantee to every one charged with crime a fair and impartial trial.

"Responsibility for the crime-of lynching rests not only upon actors, but upon the community which shuts its eyes to the crime and permits and tolerates it, and upon legislators who refuse to enact laws to suppress the.

"It can and will be stopped when the better element who deprecate mob law, aggressively condemn and determine to suppress the practice.

upon legislators who recome to suppress if.

"It is no excuse to say that the northern people, who have less to provoke them to it, lynch. Let us not take them as a cause it defles government, ignores law and punishes without law or evidence. Under our government, laws are made and unmade at the will of the majority. If there are unwise laws, the people can repeal; if need for one, the people can react. Any organized effort to set at maught our laws and punish crime without and in deflance of the law is itself criminal. In its very essence it is treason against the majority and against government.

"In the discussion of lynching, let it be clearly understood that it is not a question as to whether or not those guilty of crime shall be punished, but whether or not the act of punishing shall multiply criminals.

"In a free government like ours there is no excuse for lynching. If there is not, punishment should not be inflicted. The courts of our state can be firsted to punish the guilty and protect our property, our persons, and the honor and virtue of our women.

"I am deeply concerned for a remedy for this evil that we may save from guilt the this evil that we may save from guilt the this evil that we may save from guilt the certain to convict.

"To adopt it, in these cases, is to put the life of every man in the power of any woman who might for any reason desire his death. When such crimes are charged the pass on of the people is more deeply stirred than by any other, and the mob is quick to act.

"Yet vlewed from the standpoint of reason and not of passion, there is less excuse for lynching in such cases than in any other. Delay cannot be given as a reason, nor a fear that justice will be defeated. At Monticello and Columbus the men were taken out of the courtroom during the trial and lynched. In most cases the law, when they know that the court will convene and give a speedy trial. For this offense, above all others, the courts are quick to try, and if guilty, the juries certain to convict.

"It is not, then, that they fear delay or this offense, above all others, the courts are quick to try, and if guilty, the juries certain to convict.

"It is not, then, the court of the acquittal of the gulity, but it is a defiance of law. It is a desifie to substitute passion for evidence and vengeance for itstice.

"There being no excuse to be found for fear of e, ther delay or failure of justice, but one reason is left, and that is the objection to the outraged victim having to go ir to court and relate the horrible story. That this is a terrible ordeal, every one must concede, but human life must be valued even above this trial. She should undergo this trial, not as a sacrifice to the guilty, but to conferm to the rules of law, which centuries of experience have demonstrated to be absolutely essential for the protection of the innocent. The truth canrot be had save by having both sides heard before an impartial tribunal.

"To remove this objection, however, our law provides that on such ocasions the judge may order the courtroom cleared of all save the jurors and lawvers engaged in the case on trial.

"There is, therefore, no just fication nor excuse for a resort to lynching, even in this class of cases, when the defendant is charged with the most dastardly and horrible of crimes. No man doubts in these cases that the law will punish the guilty, and if he did, he could not find a remedy by making a murderer of himself. The remarkable fact exists that in a majority of instances the party linched is taken from the custody of officers. I can understand how a near relative of the victim of the lust of a human brute who sees before him the man whom he believes has committed the outrage, and in the heat of passion siavs him, can enlist the interest and sympathy of a community; but how any one can fall to condemn those who are guilty of the cowardly act of taking from the officers of the law a man who is disarmed and helpless, and hangling him without trial, surpasses my comprehension.

Effect of Lynching.

"Both capital and worthy immigrants seek places where law is supreme and the frequent occurrences of lynching will advertise ours as a lawless state and as a half-civilized people.
"It sacrifices the innecent, brings law into

HALL HOPES FOR CONVICT REFORM IN THE LEGISLATURE

Says the Action of the Joint Committee Does Not Settle the Question by Any Means---Holds Out for a Central Penitentiary and a Reformatory.

To the Editor of The Constitution-The scheme contemplated in the bill for reform in our convict system introduced by myself and embodying the suggestions of the principal keeper of the penitentiary, contemplates the establishment of a permanent penitentiary prison, as soon as the money derived from the hire of convicts authorized it. The bill as finally adopted by the joint committee eliminates all ideas looking to the establishment of a permanent prison. It leaves the convict question where it finds it-unsolved.

The policy of all progressive states is toward the establishment of permanent prisons. This should be the policy of Georgia. Any system adopted should avoid, as far as possible, any increase in taxation. The convicts should be made selfsustaining, and the money arising from their hire should be used in the erection of a permanent prison. It is an error that is quite prevalent in the public mind that the state should use the hire of convicts with the primary idea of pecuniary gain. It is no part, correctly speaking, of penology to make pecuniary profit out of the labor of convicts, and it should be a secondary and not a primary object in any system which might be established.

While the convicts should be punished and the sentence of the court requiring that they be kept at hard labor carried out to its fullest extent, yet they should be humanely treated and the juveniles reformed as far as possible. I trust that the present legislature will formulate in some measure the suggestions of Judge Turner and at least inaugurate a system looking to the establishment of a permanent prison after the most improved and modern plans. This may not be accomplished within several years, but it should at least be the controlling idea of any bill passed by the legislature. HEWLETT A. HALL.

The possibilities of great wealth with which these places allure their victims are well calculated to mislead and entrap men eager to grow rich, and is a tempting bait especially to the young. Lives are being constantly wrecked and fortunes squandered by these tempters. The material and moral welfare of the state demand that the bucket shops be suppressed." He urges the further perfection of the election laws and on the subject of the election laws and on the subject of the use of money in elections says:

"The right to use money in elections should be strictly guarded and directions given how, and through what channel, it should pass. The experience of others has led them to make such provisions, and, in my opinion, we should take similar action.

The low price of cotton seems to be still too high for the manufacturers. There is such an unsatisfactory condition of things at Fall River and elsewhere in the north and east, that the mills have practically withdrawn from the cotton market. The boom that was expected has not arrived; the higher tariff duties have not proved in the least effectual.

Unquestionably the low price of raw cotton is caused by the lack of demand for cotton goods, and the lack of demand is due to a lack of money. The gold men say there is plenty of money in circulation. There is probably more than a plenty in circulation in the financial centers, but that fact doesn't help matters in the wide expanse of territory covered by the south and west. There is more in circulation in the west than there has been, owing to the higher price of wheat, but the increase is not a drop in the bucket compared with the needs of the people.

The territory referred to is the market for cotton goods, and owing to the lack of money there, the mills find their unsold stocks piling up.

When will matters take a turn? When the manufacturers join with the farmers in abolishing the single gold standard. Unless that is done shortly, the majority of the eastern mills will have to go out of business.

The Governor's Message.

The message of Governor Atkinson read before the general assembly yesterday, directs the attention of our law makers to a great variety of important subjects demanding action, and also presents some interesting facts to the pul

It is gratifying to know that the State university is increasing its usefulness and prosperity. Two hundred and sixty-seven students are registered, 65 per cent of whom are members of the various religious denominations. It was formerly supposed that the farmers of the state harbored some sort of prejudice against the university. If this was the case (which we are very much inclined to doubt) the prejudice has passed away: for the sons of farmers outnumber those of lawyers, merchants, doctors and other professions. Seventy-eight of the fathers of the students are farm-This is a very interesting fact, and shows that those who are engaged in tilling the soil are even more interted in conferring the benefits of a higher education on their sons than those whose environments are apparently more favorable.

With respect to the School of Technology, the governor makes one recommendation that should commend it to the favorable attention of the legislature. He suggests the addition of a department of textiles to the school so that our young men may have an opportunity of becoming experts in the manufacture of cotton goods. The governor has information that such a measure would receive substantial aid from many prominent firms and citizens, so that the first cost would be reduced to a minimum. This recommendation is of the utmos The field of cotton manimportance. ufacturing in the south is growing constantly wider, new mills are going up every day, and there is an urgent and a growing demand for the services of ose who are familiar with the manufacture of textiles. It might be said that the best way for a young man to become an expert is to enter the pickingroom of a mill and gradually work his way through all the departments. This, indeed, was the best way before schools of technology were established; but by means of these institutions practical education has become easy of attainment. A young man in a mill would learn what is to be learned there and nothing else. In a school of technology he becomes an expert in a trade or art, and learns numerous other useful things besides. The Constitution hopes the legislature will lose no time in carrying out this suggestion of the governor's. The south is sure to become the center of cotton manufacturing, a sure proof of which is to be found in the phenomenal increase in the number of spindles during the past ten years. Thus far, with few exceptions, the superintendents and manager of our mills have come from the north use of money in an election, "Positions," he says, "should not be awarded to me on account of the wealth they possess. The power and political influence of men should not, in the smallest degree, be measured by money, but by their moral and intellectual worth. The history of th's country gives ample proof that the best service has been rendered the republic by men whose study of questions affect ing the public had so far monopolized their time that their own possession were small.' This is true, and it is also true that the use of money in elections has been steadily increasing of late years, and wherever used it has a demoralizing and a corrunting influence. Men who secure office by means of money cannot, in the nature of things, feel that they are responsible to the people for their official acts. Governor Atkinson wisely suggests that the amount of money which may be used by a candidate be fore the people or general assembly should be limited, the purposes specified by law, and the successful candidate should be required, before he assumes the duties of his office, to exhibit and file a sworn itemized statement of expenses which should not exceed the amount allowed by law.

The governor discusses the subject of lynching in all its phases. The chief cause of that crime is rape, the frequency of which, especially in the rural districts, has become alarming in the extreme and seriously interferes with the security and comfort of living in the country. There are now in the penitentiary seventy-eight convicts for assault to rape, and eighty-one for rape. Governor Atkinson shows in what a trying position the southern people are placed in dealing with this question, looks at all sides of the subject, and then comes to the conclusion to which all right minded men must sooner or later come to-wit, that mob violence is an attac on the government and demoralizing to those who practice it: and that there is no sort of excuse for it in a government in which the people make and unmake laws. "In the discussion of lynching," h declares, "let it be clearly understood that it is not a question as to whether or not those guilty of crime shall be punished, but whether or not the innocent shall escape. Not a question as to whether the guilty shall be punished, but whether or not the act of punishment shall multiply criminals." Men who are at heart law-abiding cannot afford to wink at mob law under any pretext, for their example affords an opportunity to reckless and lawless men to wreak private vengeance under cover of a charge of rape. On this point the message contains information of a surprising kind. Recently a man in this state was charged with rape, and narrowly escaped lynching. Investigation brought to light the fact that the charge was brought and the attempt at lynching made in order to suppress his evidence against parties who had been violating the prohibition law. Another instance was that of a man who charged with rape, managed to escape the mob, and established the fact that the charge was made against him to defeat the collection of a debt.

It will thus be seen that unless lynch ing is suppressed, any man unfortunate enough to have an enemy may fall a victim to the unreasoning violence of the Governor Atkinson is right in mob. taking high ground against this dangerous and detestable practice which defles the law, multiplies murderers and criminals, and endangers the life and

A Significant Statement.

In commenting upon the extraordinary increase in the volume of business carried on through our south Atlantic and gulf ports during the past few months The New York Journal of Commerce one of the most conservative journals of the east, makes the following significant observation: In their percentage of increased exports the gulf ports have exceeded the Atlant'c ports, and in actual volume the gain at both Galveston and New Orleans has been greater than at any Atlantic port with the single exception of New York. A careful study of these figures for the last two years affords a lesson full of meaning to all who are directly or indirectly associated with the export trade of the United States. If those engaged in the shipping trade at our Atlantic ports desire to maintain maintain their superiority they must bestfr themselves.

The gains made by our gulf ports during the past year are not due to any peculiar or accidental combination of circumstances, but to gradual influences which have been at work for some time. The advice, therefore, which The New York Journal of Commerce throws out to eastern ports is timely, for, unless they bestir themselves within the next few years, they are bound to be outstripped by their southern rivals.

Our American Iron Trade.

The industrial possibilities of this country are strikingly exemplified in the phenomenal growth of our American iron trade during the past fifty years. To quote from a recent article published in The New York Times, the total output of American iron in 1850 aggregated only 500,000 tons, and, out of this amount, not a single ton found its way into the foreign market. that time, however, the yearly output of our iron mines has aggregated 800,000 tons in 1860, 1.800,000 tons in 1870, 3.800, 000 tons in 1880 and 9,200,000 tons in 1890. Within the last few years iron has be come one of our most important foreign exports, and included among our patron are such countries as France, Germany and Great Britain. Estimates for the present year fix the total output of American iron at 12,000,000 tons. Ot course the greater part of this amoun will remain in the United States, as the demands of home enterprises require nearly all of the iron which can be duced in this country. Still our foreign exports for the present year will hardly fall short of 2,000,000 tons. Of course these figures are gratifying, teresting suggestions with respect to the strengthening of our election laws. The legislature has already passed reg-teresting suggestions with respect to the splendid possibilities which the future holds in store for the iron trade of this country. Embedded in our soil of any state in the union; but there it there are vast deposits of iron ore which have not, as yet, been touched. islation that will limit or prohibit the the mountains of Georgia, Alabama,

A Wholesome Sentiment

The conviction of the Dalton gang of car robbers is an indication of a whole-some public sentiment that reflects credit upon Whitfield county and the state. The evidence in the various trials showed that a systematic plan of looting the railroads had been successfully practised for years, and the efforts of the authorities to detect the robbers were fruitless until recently, when the entire gang were

The people of the entire state wer shocked at the disclosures following the arrests. Some of the most influential citizens of Dalton were found to be implicated in the systematic steal. Among others, one of the wealthiest merchants of the city, and the agent of the State railroad, a man of large influence in the community, was indicted. Most of the accused were men who had hitherto orne the best of reputations. There can be little doubt that the inception of this unlawful conspiracy was based upon the too prevalent disregard of corporate rights. It is probably true that not one of these men convicted of robbing railroads with reckless repetition, would have gained the consent of his conscience to have robbed the rest dence or violated the property rights of hls neighbor. The fact that the victim of their rapacity was a railroad evidently went far toward drawing into the nefarious scheme men of such standing in the community.

The conviction of these men was thought to be impossible, not only by the accused, but by the public, and it would be difficult to say where the vindication of justice caused most surprise. The prisoners were defended with zeal and ability, and the part played by the railways in the prosecution was ingeniously used with full effect for the de-The conviction of every member of the band of conspirators placed upon trial was a great tribute to Judge Rufus T. Dorsey, who was sent by the Southern Railway Company to take per sonal charge of the prosecution, and whose skill, energy and resistless elo quence left no avenue of escape for the accused. It was a tribute to the ability and impartiality of the able judge who presided and of the jury and the solicitor and other prosecuting attorneys who played an important part in the administration of justice. But it was more than all an encouraging commentary upon the public sentiment of the community-a sentiment that has crystallized into respect of property rights whether they pertain to corporations or individuals; a sentiment that has found voice to command concurrence in this just respect, and means to enforce the

The Fall Elections.

Although the heated municipal contest which is now going on in Greater New York monopolizes to some extent the attention of the country, it is interesting to note that, on next Tuesday important political battles will be fought in twelve states of the union. The states furnishing these battle grounds are New York, Ohio, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Iowa, Nevada, Nebraska and Washington. Of course in New York state the mil nicipal campaign overshadows everything else, but there is, nevertheless, a warm fight going on between the two great parties over the claims of rival candidates for the office of judge of the court of appeals. From present indications there is good reason to hope for the success of the democratic ticket. In Massachusetts and Pennsylvania comlete state tickets are to be elected. of the legislature, several state senators and one congressman are to be elected.

Second in dramatic interest only to the municipal contest in Greater New York is the spirited campaign which is going on in Ohio over the political complexion of the state legislature. As Senator Hanna is a candidate for re-election the success of his campaign depends upon the character of the state legislature to be elected on next Tuesday. To say that the erstwhile manager of the national republican campaign is alarmed for the safety of his toga is to employ the use of the mildest possible terms for, in conversation with personal friends, Senator Hanna has made no secret of his uneasiness. Without predict ing what the result of the fight in Ohio will be, it suffices to observe that the contest is sure to go down in history as one of the warmest which has been fought in the Buckeye State in years: and if Senator Hanna comes out of the race with flying coors he will have good reason to be proud of his victory. As to the contest for state officers, the chances at present seem to be evenly divided, although the republicans profess to be confident of their ability to sweep the state. In Maryland the state legislature is to be chosen charged with the responsibility of naming a successor to Senator Gorman, whose term expires on March 4th next. In Virginia and Kentucky state officers are to be elected, and though vigorous efforts are being made by the republicans in each of these states to carry the day, it is certain that the democratic ticket will be elected by rousing majorities. In Iowa the republicans are bent upon carrying the state, and may possibly succeed; in Nebraska, however, the democratic ticket is much stronger than the republican ticket, and is certain of victory. Alto-gether, the situation is intensely interesting and, to the eye of the close ob server, is prophetic of heavy democratic

SOME POLITICAL TALK THAT'S GOING AROUND

The Constitution's announcement that President Berner will certainly be in the race for the governorship created all kinds of talk about the capitol yesterday. It has been known, of course, that Mr. Berner had natural aspirations to be governor, but most of the politicians have of late figured in the sixth district; so the announcement, coming as it did, created no little sur-

There was a studied effort on the part of everybody involved to deny the feature of the story which told of the strained relations between President Berner and the men who have heretofore been among his strongest supporters. These denials lost force through the reiterated protestations of the men directly involved, and the fact that there is a lack of harmony between Mr. Berner on the one side and the governor and the attorney general on the other became the more apparent as the talk increased. Berner still thinks that Terrell ought not to make the race. He has an blea that he is the legitimate successor to the governor's chair, and that he should receive the support of Governor Atkinson and all finding that neither the governor nor Colonel Terrell see the situation in the same light that he does: for they believe that they have done everything for Berner that they ought to do. They are doing a great deal of talking on the quiet about Be "pretensions" and his tendency to look after his own interests so closely; that he s not able to be of very great value to his friends; and indeed there is much being said beneath the surface which would be promptly and vigorously denied by all of the parties if it were repeated, but which nevertheless, is true. All of it goes to show that there is by no means the harmony among these former friends that the politicians and the people have believed to exist. Of course Mr. Berner is denying that he is a candidate. It is true that he has not announced his candidacy, but it is equally true that, to some of his friends, he has stated that he would certainly be in the

Another effect of The Constitution's story was to cause a lively movement on the part of the friends of Speaker Jenkins. The speaker himself refuses to discuss the governorship situation further than to say that, before the end of the session, he will have something to give to the people on that subject. But his friends are doing a lot of talking. Upon his arrival here he was given a hearty reception and last night was in conference with a number of the men who have assured him that it is their purpose to give him their support if he decided to make the race. These men are not doing much talking on the outside, but they are telling the speaker that he is their choice, and are giving bim assurances of support which cannot but be substantial.

As one of these gentlemen, a north Georgia representative, explained to The Constitution yesterday, "A very small percentage of the members of the legislature have declared for either Attorney General Terrell or Mr. duBignon, who are regarded as the leading factors in the contest as it now stands. A large number at least of the members of the house will give speaker Jenkins their support, and they do not care to place themselves on record in favor of anybody else until the speaker says he is not going to run. You are safe in putting him down as one of the strong probabilities in that contest. Before th end of the session he will have a full conference with his friends all over the state, and to a large extent he will leave to them the decision as to his future, so far as this particular contest goes. But if he does decide to make the race," continued this arthing; he will go directly to the people with his claims and will make it decidedly lively for any and all others in the contest before the people. Next year is going to be a people's year in Georgia. The pollticians are not going to have as much to do with settling these nominations as they now do."

There is a good deal of truth in this leclaration about the people taking a hand in making their nominations. The sentient in favor of the decision of these matters by the people themselves rather than the relegation of them to the politicians is all the time growing in Georgia, and the man who will be next governor of Georgia will have to get his commission from the democratic masses. I look for a decided revival of the old-time campaign speaking throughout the state. I believe that the aspirants for the governorship will have to go out on the hustings and make themselves and their principles known to the people, and that it is the man whose principle agree with those of the people and who s able to make the best impression upon the stump who will carry off the prize.

And speaking of strength with the masses tiere has been a tendency on the part of the politicians to overlook one man about whom there is muck talk-that is denera Evans. The general is daily receiving assurances of hearty support, and it is by no means certain that he will not be one of the strongest factors in the next contest. Though he says he is not a candidate, he does not say that he will not be. The fact is, his closest friends regard him as an active candidate for the place now.

The congressional delegation was inreased yesterday by the arrival of Judge Maddox, of the seventh district, and Congressman Carter Tate, of the ninth.

The presence of Judge Maddox in the city caused a good deal of gossip about congressional conditions in the seventh The judge declined to discuss the question. but one of his friends in talking about the newspaper reports said: "It is understood that ex-Solicitor Harris, of Bartow, will be a candidate, but it is not believed that anybody else will enter the race against Judge Maddox. To us in the seventh district there is no surprise in the fact of a Bartow county man being a candidate for congress. Ever since Pierce Young first went to congress after the war, thirty-one years ago, Bartow has always had a candidate for congress. Those of us who are friends of Judge Maddox believe that he will without doubt succeed himself. He has made one of the best congressmen livery for rural communities, Judge Griggs said: "That has been a hobby of mine for some time, and I have been corresponding with the department on the subject thi er. I have a bill on that line which gress, and I hope to secure its passage.

"As The Constitution suggested on Monday, it will be several years perhaps before a satisfactory free mail delivery will be reached in the thinly settled districts, but that it is bound to come in the near future is no longer a question. My bill provides for the delivery of all mail along the public roads. It is not for a house to house de-livery, but a delivery to boxes placed not nester than two miles along all the public roads. No man will object to sending a mile for his daily paper, or walking that distance, if it is necessary, and this will place no man who lives on the public road more than a mile from his postoffice. That would be a vast improvement over the conditions of the bill which I will introduce, have his own private box, and severput in the same box. Thus citizens who do not live on the public road can have their boxes on the public road just as if they lived on it, and have their mail de livered there just the same "But the details are unimportant. This bill will provide for a daily mail conveniently placed for all of the people of the rural districts, and that is the main ques tion. Something must be done by the government to ameliorate the hard social and business conditions of country life. Nothing, in my opinion, will contribute more to this than a free mail delivery. Of course that is but one step, but it is something is due the agricultural classes, and which they should have. The farmers have not been receiving their share of benefits from the legislation of recent years, and the sooner we return to the ideas of our fathers with respect to agriculture, the fathers with respect to agriculture, the better for all of our people. It is as true oday as when it was first said by a distinguished American of early days: When you cut loose from the land, you are at "The cost? Why the department estimate for free rural house-to-house deliv-ery all over the United States amounts to from forty-five to fifty millions per year. That estimate is based on experiments in all parts of the country, impartially made If that be correct, my plan could not cost more than fifteen to twenty millions—re small sum to be contributed to small sum to be contributed to the happiness and prosperity of the farmer, when you consider that for all purposes and classes we appropriate $500,000,000 a year, and that the farmer contributes so largely to this sum. My plan would not result in any increase of taxation, but the expenses of rural delivery could easily be met by lopping off unnecessary expenditures in other directions. My idea is for a more equal and just distribution of the benefits, so that the farmer will get a share, and I believe this free rural delivery is a step n the right direction.

From The Brunswick Advertiser This is a delightful subject enthused by The Atlanta Constitution, and many have been aroused to write about it. There is as much in its discussion as there is in Editor McIntosh's famous "hog and hom-iny" slogan, which has not only done more to recuperate Georgia agriculture and make independent farm homes and encour-aging the infection of good cheer than any ne thing, but it is regulating and strengthening the credit of the town merchants. But The Constitution and its corresponents have so far only treated the matter as a poetic sentiment or as the memory of a past indulgence. It is not to be wondered that only this phase of the theme has given delight to expression. There is not one of the "old boys" whose happy lot to do the milling on days when the soil was too wet to stir, but that is moved to the depths of his heart by the clustering incidents of hapwhich are associated with it and in the fishing in the pond while the turn was

Editor of an Insurance Journal Substantiates His First Charge and Threatens with Proof.

The effort of the editor of The Spectator. an insurance journal devoted to the interests of the insurance business, to show that Mr. C. L. Delbridge, a brother of the late lomas J. Delbridge, was making an attempt to secure some of the insurance mon-ey on his brother's life, has proven to be according to The Spectator, and he, in the last issue, substantiates what he has In his first charge against Mr. C. L. Del-bridge, he says:

"It was thought that the sensational features of the Delbridge case would end with the settlement of the insurance ciaims, but not so. A brother and former business associate of the decedent, not being satisfied with a gratuity of $5,000 out of the $50,000 collected, is attempting to get even with the widow by 'peaching.' He has written to the companies offering to make all sorts of startling disclosures for a specified consideration. It is said that the Aetna (accident department) has listened to his statements, but so far none of the other companies have given any consideraridge, he says: to his statements, but so far none of the other companies have given any consideration to his proposition. No one believes that he can adduce any convincing evidence of suicide, further than some alleged statements and conversations of the dead n an, which would hardly be admitted by the courts, and even if suicide should be proven now it is not clear how the companies could proceed to recover the money already paid."

After Many Failures His Pardon Was Signed Yesterday.

HIS RELEASE COMES TODAY

When He Awakes This Morning He Wil Be a Free Man.

HE HAS NO PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

Pardon Was the Result of the Hard Work of His Councel, His Father. Senator Bacon and a Host of Friends Who Have Been Loval.

Lewis Redwine will walk from the Columbus penitentiary this morning a free

Yesterday morning while the prisoner worked at his desk the attorney general in Washington was busily engaged in dictating a pardon for the prisoner, and last night the telegraph wires ticked out the message to the principal keeper in Columbus authorizing the discharge of Redwine When Redwine awakes this morning h will find the great doors of iron unbolted and he will walk to liberty and to the new life that is awaiting him. The message that the day will bring will not be a surprise to the prisoner, who has waited patiently through the long four years of his service for the pardon. Daily he has been expecting the message for more than two weeks, and each night that he retired he hoped that it would be his last in the penitentiary. Yesterday an Atlanta haberdasher, who for years supplied Redwine with the latest fads and fashions while the young bank cashier was in the zenith of his prosperity, sent a big box of wearing apparel to the prisoner. It contained the latest block of hat, a number of fashionable scarfs, some underwear, and in fact a bountiful supply of furnishings. Redwine will don these this morning and he will be dressed in the latest fashion when he bids the penitentiary officials goodby.

The pardon has been granted at the urgent request of Senator Bacon, the persistent effort of Redwine's counsel. Colonel N. J. Hammond, and after several of the most prominent judicial officials of the south had attached their indorsement to the petition. Among those who signed the paper s Judge Pardee, who presided over the famous trial which resulted in the convic tion of Redwine.

The first intimation of the pardon being granted was received yesterday morning in Macon by Senator Bacon, who has just returned from Washington, where he went ast week in the interest of Redwine. The telegram, though brief, contained the information that the attorney general had rized the pardon which last night. Senator Bacon telegraphed the good news o Dr. Columbus L. Redwine, the father of the young man, in Atlanta yesterday. Last night Dr. Redwine had received other assurances, confirming the telegram received earlier in the day by Senator Ba-Redwine has not decided what he will do or where he will go. He will spend today in Columbus, where he has made many friends since he has been a prisoner. His father expects a telegram from him this morning which will doubtless indicate what Redwine will do.

The Plans for the Future.

Dr. Redwine was seen yesterday and he stated that the pardon had been sent to Columbus, as well as a telegraphic order to the principal keeper of the penitentiary. "Lewis has not decided just what he will do," said Dr. Redwine. "His health is not good and I have been informed that it was but recently that he suffered a hemorrhage of the lung. I have doubtless been kept in ignorance of his true condition because Lewis has endeavored to shield me as much as possible from anxiety and suffering. "It was only last week that he wrote me he was not feeling as well as the before, when he wrote that his health was much better. I fear he is completely broken down, but I hope that with rest, both physical and mental, he will fully recover.

"His mother died from consumption and I have always feared Lewis would become a consumptive. Before his confinement in the penitentiary he was quite strong and well, but I learn from the committee of Atlantians recently in Columbus as delegates to the mayor's convention that Lewis was looking badly and that he did not appear to be well. "I would be glad that Lewis would come back to Atlanta and enter business here. He certainly has many friends in the city who have always believed him innocent. and I am quite sure he would meet with a cordial and friendly reception were he to

How the Pardon Was Secured.

How the Pardon Was Secured.

The granting of the pardon that will open the prison doors to Lewis Redwine this morning was not the voluntary act of the officials of the government. It came after an earnest effort in which many of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta were identified.

Colonel Hammond and Mr. Thod Hammond have been working for the release of the young man. So has Dr. Redwine, his father, who has never for a moment believed his son to be guilty of the charges laid at his door.

Senator Bacon, who for years has been a close personal friend to Dr. Redwine, has worked with a will for the release of Lewis, and he has been actuated solely through friendship for the young man's family.

the petition before the president, and great influence has been brought to bear upon the white house officials.

"Lewis ought to have had a pardon a long time ago," said Dr. Redwine last night as he was talking about the pardon. "He has been faithful and his conduct has been without criticism. He has, in fact, done the work in the prison that would have cost $2,000 a year if a man had been employed by the government. He should have been well paid for this work, but I am told he will not receive a cent of money. He is almost penniless, and what money he may secure must come as a result of his work.

The Story of the Crime.

Lewis Redwine was arrested in Atlanta four years ago charged with wrecking the Gate City bank, of which he was the assistant cashier.

Thousands of dollars passed daily through his hands, but no error in his books was detected until the day of his flight. For days the city was searched by detectives, and all hope of his, arrest had about been abandoned when he was accidentally discovered in a house on McDaniel street.

His trial and the startling rumors that swept through the city caused intense excitement, and it was reported and claimed by Redwine's friends that others were implicated, and that he was being made the scapegoat.

plicated, and that he was being made the scapegoat.

After a most sensational trial, in which the bank was represented by Captain Harry Jackson, Redwine was convicted and was given a sentence of six years in the United States penitentiary in Columbus. He has served only about four years, but the allowance for good behavior would have caused his term to have expired on November 4th, but for the pardon.

Wandered Into the Suburbs.

Searching parties will this morning go out in every direction to look for Mr. John F. Quillian, who disappeared three days ago and who has not been seen since. Much mystery surrounds the strange disappearance. The wife of the missing man s wild with grief and his relatives are very much excited over the sudden going

The police have been notified to search for Mr. Quillian and his disappearance has been widely advertised. A determined effort will be made to find him today. Mr. Quillian left his pretty home at 200 Ashley street. West End, Tuesday morning to go to his place of business in the shoe department at Hign's. Since then he has not returned to his home. The fact that there was no reason on earth for Mr. Quillian to leave, adds more mystery to the matter. He was a very tomperate man and was in no financial trouble. He was on the best of terms with his family and his domestic life was happy and bright. When he left his home Tuesday morning, he came down stairs and told his wife he might want some charge for car fare. Then he felt in his pockets and said: "No, I have a quarrer, which will be as much as I will need." At the opening hour at High's Mr. Quit lain was not present. He did not come in during the day. At 9 o'clock he went into Douglas & Davison's, where his brother-inlaw. Mr. Fred Williams, is employed in the cloak department. He talked for a few m ments and then left While Mr. Williams made some inquiry as to a position with Gramling & Spalding, for which Quillian had stoken of applying. Mr. Quillain sagl that he was going right down to Gramling & Spalding to see about the place.

He did not go to Gramling & Spalding's. At 1) o'clock he returned to the store of Douglas & Davison, where he talket with Mr. J W. Hayes. He was rext seen at the Kir tal! house at il o'clock. He talked for a short while with his cousin, Mr. Robert Quillian, of Lula, a member of the legislacure. At 2 o'clock ne returned to Douglas Lavison's, but did not see Mr. Williams. The last time he was seen was at o'clock, when the cash poy at the Kimbal saw him walking through the lobby. There is only one theory that is regarded as reasonable. When Quillian left home he said to his wife: "I have the headache and will go up town and get something for my heal." His wife now believes that he came up town bought something for his head and taking it was put under the influence of the opiates it might have contained, and in this disordered state of mind wandered

She believes that he is dead and is perfectly wild with fear and grief. Mr Quillian was slightly affected with headaches, which have been troubling him for a month. A few weeks ago ins little ther ded and since then he has been much depressed. This might account for his d'sappearance.

Mr. Quillian was slightly affected with died of paralysis, which just before their deaths affected their brain. For a short ime preceding his fatner's death, the o'd ger-tleman was out of his mind. The relatives of the dead man have tak-en action and have determined to organize a vigorous search beginning early this morning. They beg that any news of the missing man may be sent to police headquarters or to the home of the family in Some of his relatives believe that Mr. Quillian has gone to the Indian Territory to meet his brother. Some time ago his brother, living in the far west, wrote to orother, living in the far west, wrote to Mr. Quillian to reet him in Indian Territory to start in business together. Mr. Quillian made efforts to dispose of his property so that he could go to the west, but had not sold when he left.

His immediate family say that he most certainly has not gone to the Indian Ter-ritory, as he had no money. His wife knew his salary and says he always gave it to her when he drew it.

The Remedy. "In murder cases the complaint is that the cases can be too easily continued and justice unnecessarily delayed. I am not an advocate of hasty trials, but of prompt ones. No one should be rushed into a trial involving his life, when passion in the county where the trial is to be had is at white heat and a fair trial impossible.

"The law should in all cases permit the court, on motion of the defendant, or on its own motion, or on motion of the state attorney, to change the venue to any county in the state. In determining whether or not to order a change of venue, the judge should be authorized to exercise a very broad discretion and act upon all knowledge that he might possess bearing upon the question. If, in his opinion, a change of venue is necessary to secure a fair and impartial jury, he should order the change, and this decision should not be reviewed by the supreme court. The authority of the circuit judge in such cases should be made plain and ample, and all doubt removed as to power of the supreme court to review his decision.

"This change in our law I believe the first step necessary to secure, in all cases, prompt and fair trials.

The Granting of Continuances. "In some instances it is difficult to secure a trial on account of the laws regulating the granting of continuances. "This can be remedied by leaving to the "This can be remedied by leaving to the trial judge the sole power to pass upon motions to continue, denying to the supreme court the power to grant a new trial on account of alleged error in so doing. The circuit judge who knows the parties, the case and its history, and has the witnesses on the question before him, can better determine whether the motion is made for delay only, and whether a fair trial and a just verdict can be had without further delay, than the supreme court. "Every practitioner knows that the right of continuance is the most abused of all rights granted by the law in court procedure, and in my opinion the circuit judge will correct the abuse if empowered to do so.

will correct the abuse if empowered to do so.

"The law which gives the defendant more peremptory strikes than the state should be so amended as to give each party the same number. Under the existing law power is given the defendant to object without cause to so many jurors that he can, in many cases, pack a jury in his own interest.

"I have heretofore recommended to the general assembly, and again urge upon you, that the law be so amended as to punish assault with intent to rape with death unless the punishment be reduced upon the recommendation of the jury trying the case, just as it may be done row when the charge is rape.

"Those who commit these offenses deserve to be punished under the same law.

No Excuse in Such Cases.

No Excuse in Such Cases.

No Excuse in Such Cases.

"It has been insisted by some that the way to stop lynching is to provide for the prompt punishment of all who commit the crimes which provoke it.

"Neither the law's delay nor the failure of justice can be given as an excuse for lyncings in rape cases.

"In dealing with the offense of rape in our courts there has been for the guilty no delay and no escape. Courts are promptly enlied, trials had, and justice cuickly administered. In such cases the men whose names are in the jury boxes in Georgia can be reled upon to convict.

"The evil will exist for a long time, if not disturbed, until public opinion is educated to the point where the condemnation is sufficiently intense and unanimous to make it impossible.

"It is, therefore, necessary that without waiting for this slow process, the majority representing law, order, justice and civilization pass such legislation as will repress the lawless element and secure the reign of law. The certainty of prompt trials slone will not end lynchings. The delays of the law is a favorite excuse, but is not the real reason for its existence. Other legislation is needed to add in checking it.

"The arresting officer is now clothed with authority to take the life of the assailants when resisting their efforts to take 4 prisoner from his custody, and it is his duty to take life if necessary to protect the prisoner and retain him in custody. This he should be required to do at the hazard of his own life, or the prisoner should be unshackled, armed and given an opportunity to defend himself. The knowledge on the part of the mob that this would be done would deter it from pursuing its lawless purpose, and the law would be permitted to protect the innocent and punish the guilty.

tive Movements.

The college boys with their yells and flying colors will take Atlanta Saturday. They are coming from Athens on a big excursion and on that day the old campus will be deserted.

The "lung brigade" has been thoroughly organized and it is said to be a daisy. If Georgia should win it would be a safe precaution to have a pair of car muffs along. Tais is not meant as an insinuation that it will be a cold day if they do win, but the ear muffs will be useful to prevent deafness. And Georgia's chances of winning are not so bad. Their team is a light one but they are playing the game and Virginia may meet her match. Last year the champlonship was disputed between Georgia and Virginia, and while the teams could not meet then, it was arranged to have them meet early this year and hence this game.

meet early this year and hence this game. Coach McCarthy has the following to say to The Constitution about his team:

"At the present time the chances are undoubtedly in favor of Virginia. I understand that they have one of the heaviest teams in the country, averaging about 174 pounds to our 155. It is evident that Georgia will have to make up a good deal in spirit, quickness, dash, etc. We have the advantage of fighting on home grounds and if Georgia's men will simply come down determined as in the Georgia-Pennsylvania baseball game we have a fighting chance to win. The unexpected often happens, We baseball game we have a lighting chance to win. The unexpected often happens, We will not lose the game from lack of work. The people of Georgia expect the team to go out and defend Georgia and they will light to the last inch in this game. "CHARLES McCARTHY,"

"Coach University of Georgia. Mr. McCarthy sees that the game hinges on hard, fast and earnest work of his men and he is doing all in his power to instill these principles into their minds. The team has shown wonderful improvement since he has had charge of them and they will undoubtedly put up a strong, snappy game against the champions. Captain Kent, of the Georgia team, says:

Captain Kent, of the Georgia team, says:

"I think our line this year is fully as good as our impregnable line of %6 and that our ends will compare most favorably with those of last year, which will be proven if Virginia tries to circle around them. Our game this year is quite different from that of last year. We are playing the Yale-Princeton game now, whereas last year we played the Harvard-Cornell game. Tichenor at quarter-back is known well enough. All that I can say is that he is there and playing his usual brilliant game. Our backs compare favorably with those of %6. They are not working too well together, but are excellent individual men. Our kicking is superb. Better than ever before. We average in weight 155 and I hear that Virginia averages about 175, or about a difference of twenty pounds to the man. All of our men are in good shape and anxiously awaiting the game. and anxiously awaiting the game.
"W. B. KENT,
"Captain Georgia Team."

Manager Mitchell, of the Georgia team, has the most sanguine hopes that his team will win and he says that he believes that the game will be full of surprises. As he puts it Virginia cannot hope to win a game on her reputation and Georgia is going to give them a fight. It is a little enfortunate that the game should come so early in the season, but it is the same disadvantage to both teams.

The Georgia Players.

The Georgia boys are not banking much this year on star players. They do not put their hopes in the individual men, but in men as a team. All the stars in the play together. All of the men on the team good, steady players and they are king together. Kent, captain and right tackle of the team, is in his old place and is as usual doing splendid work. He will probably have to face Marsh in the game aturday, but whoever it is he may be depended on to hold his man. Kent is an old player and he is up on all of the new points of the game. As captain of the team he may be depended on to uphold Georgia's rights and spur his men on.

"Tic" Tichenor will be at quarter-back and will be seen at his best. This is the first time that Tic has met the Virginia team and he will be of great value to the Georgia team. Coach McCarthy says that he is the best quarter-back in the country today, and he is probably correct in his estimate of the little player.

Brooks Clark, the right guard, is an old Cornell player and played tackle for them in '96. He is said to be one of the best ne men in the south today and will face Collier in the Virginia game. These two men may be expected to put up a great battle of science and strength and the man who gets the best of it may easily be called the best lineman in the south. Gammon, who is playing half-back this year, is doing fine work and is one of the stars of the team. He goes at the line in ong, steady manner that seldom fails to gain ground. "Kit" Jones, former half-back and tackle for the Princeton preparatory school, is do-ing fine work for Georgia this year. He is a wonderful player and strengthens the team greatly. His clever head work and steady nerves are always magnificent in a

Moore at left half-back is a fast man and one who fully understands the game. All in all the Georgia team may be looked on as one fully able to uphold the red and black and they will give Virginia a great

The Carriage Space.

Manager Mitchell, of the Georgia team, has a scheme that he will work this year in regard to the carriages at the game that will prove a success, as it is done at all the big games up north and has proved more than satisfactory both to the teams and the patrons of the game. Instead of letting the vehicles come in and line themselves up indiscriminately along the side lines in the way of the players and the other spectators the space will be laid off into sections just wide enough for a ve-hicle and numbered. These stands will be sold just as the reserved seats are and $5 will be charged for each stand. These reserved spaces will be next to the side line Just as soon as the ground is staked off o'clock they will have a large street parade in carriages and banners to tell who and what they are. Each team will have its banner thrown to the breezes. In the afternoon they will all take a practice spin on the track and see what kind of speed they can get out of it. Last night some time before the train was due all of the racing men in the city were waiting to meet them, but they were disappointed, for the two special cars did not come. Prince received a telegram from Spo the manager of the trip, stating that they had been delayed in leaving Memphis account of the heavy traffic going to the exposition and that they would get in here this morning.

Bald and Loughead are still in the city, but they have not decided yet whether they will ride in the circuit races here yet or not. Loughead said last night that he might ride, but he had not made up his mind yet. Bald said that he did not think be would ride and that he expected to leave here in a short while unless he had a match against some of the men. Prince is trying to arrange a meeting between Bald and Cooper, and it Cooper is willing to put up his money the match will prob-ably be arranged, as Bald is willing. Bald not doing any hard work now, but if he can get a match that will pay him he will ride. But Bald does rot care to ride for any small purse, and it will take a nice purse to tempt him. It is very likely that if Cooper will back himself for about $100 that Raid can be persuaded to meet him, but Baid has got all the glory out of riding this season that he can, and as he has made a pile of money, he does not care to go in any matches unless he can make something out of them. Cooper will be here with the circuit today and he may be willing to put up his money, as he is said to be anxious to have a match with Bald. He and Bald are not friends; in fact, they have not spoken for over a year, and it would be interesting to see a match between them. Eaton is, of course, anxious to meet Bald again and will doubtless be willing to back himself in a match.

Just as soon as the circuit races are over Prince will probably arrange some this season that he can, and as he has over Prince will probably arrange some kind of a match with Bald as the star, as the people are all anxious to see him ride again.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED THEM LAST NIGHT WILL GO INTO TRAINING WHILE HERE

The Young Fellow Is Very Reficent, but Is Very Clever-What He Had To Say.

Jimmy Michael, the most wonderful little midget that ever mounted a wheel, is in the city.

He and his trainer are at the Kimball and will be here for some days.

The little Welchman came in quietly and no one dreamed when they saw the quiet looking little fellow that he was the great Michael who for months has had his pictures in all the papers of the world and who has made a small fortune on his tiny wheel. Since last spring Michael has won about $25,000, but you could never tell it from looking at him. Attired n a brown suit and dark sweater, with a corduroy cap, he does not look like a cham-

There is none of the dash and swagger about Michael that one might expect to see in a champion who is the wonder of the world and whom all the great riders would give part of their lives to beat. Never out once has he been beaten, and that was done by Frank Starbuck and astonish ed the world at the time. That it was an accident due to hard luck, everybody knows, and when they meet again in December Michael will try to prove it.

In the race with Starbuck four out of the six pacing machines Michael broke down, and had to ride almost the entire race unpaced. When the last lap came Michael did not know it until the bell rang. and then he came very near catching up and crossing the tape first. While every one knows that it was only on account of the pace, Michael will not say so and merely smiles a bright little smile when questioned about the race. In fact, Michael is so modest that he will not talk at all about himself. When questioned about himself and his races, he gets very bashful and will not talk. He has large blue eyes that sparkle with merriment and a smile that never leaves his countenance. In speaking of what he would do in Atlanta, he said: "I do not know yet what I will do. I am here to ride for Prince and will do whatever he wants. I guess it will be an exhibition.

Yes, I will train while I am here on the track and on the road. I will start tomorrow and ride twice a day. I will go on the track at 10 in the morning and at 3 in the afternoon and do some work on the road in between time." When asked about what he thought he would do in his coming race with Starbuck, he only smiles and looks knowingly out of h's blue eyes. The chances are however that he will give "Star" the hardest ride that he ever had and win easily. In speaking of the chainless wheels, he said that he did not think they were any advantage over the other wheels. "I saw the same thing in France four years ago," he said, and that was all he would say about them. He rides a wheel geared to 106 and it weighs twenty-one pounds. He says that he likes the American wheels better than the ones made in the old country.

It has been reported in the northern papers that th's was his last year on the track and that next year he would become a jockey and ride horses. He laughed when asked about this and said: "Oh, no; I will ride the wheel next year just the same." If he can find men who will back themselves next year and keeps up the miraculous work that he is doing this year, there is no telling the amount of money that he will make. He will be seen on the collseum track today, and it is probable that large crowds will go out to see him take his first spin.

Mrs. Thetford is right in saying "there is no reason why women should suffer like they do". Take any average hundred women and ninety-nine of them would have good health if they would take Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it for suffering women. About two thousand of them buy Wine of Cardui every day. And nearly every one gets complete relief. It acts directly upon the delicate menstrual organs. That stops and cures "whites" falling of the womb, suppression, flooding, painful and irregular menstruation, monthly headaches and pains in sides and back. hill, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. W. A. street. Several hundred guests were assembled to witness the ceremony performed by Rev. Clement A. Evans, a life-long friend of the bride's family. He performed the wedding ceremony of the bride's parents and officiated at the celebration of their silver wedding not long since. The spacious home of Colonel and Mrs. Hemphill was elaborately decorated last night and both the upper and lower floors were thrown open for the entertainment of the guesta. The hallways were converted into veritable bowers of palms and that imposing plant was used as a background for the minor decorations of cut flowers. . In the drawing room the broad archways of the windows were filled in with palms, in front of which were banks of white crysanthemums. The mantel had decorating the cabinet maiden hair ferns and bunches of white chrysanthemums, and the prieu dieu, upon which the bride and groom knelt for the nuptial blessing, was entirely hidden in garlands of smilax.

In the dining room, where the bridal party proper were served at supper, there was profuse adornment of white chrysanthemums. These beautiful flowers were the main feature in the decoration of the table, superb in its appointments of silver and cut glass. An elegant repast was serve and many happy toasts were proposed here to the bride and groom.

At 8:30 o'clock a bridal chorus, composed of artistic voices, led by Miss Clark, sang the bridal chorus, and the attendants descended the broad staircase and proceeded to the drawing room to await the bride. Richmond, Vai., October 27.—(Special.)—
The marriage today of Miss Nannie Withers Langhorne and Mr. Robert G. Shaw, of Boston, was a notable event in Virginia society. The bride is sister of 3frs. Charles Dana Gibson, whose wedding here just two years ago was one of the most inferesting social functions of that season. The wedding took place at noon today at "Mirador," the country home of the bride's parents in Albermarle county.

The bride is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chiswell Langhorne, and although scarcely eighteen, is one of the brightest and most attractive ladies in Virginia society. Her father is widely known in this state and in the business centers of the north.

Mr. Quincy Shaw, a brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the father of the bride gave her away.

Miss Langhorne made a perfect picture of a bride in her bridal dress of white satin en train, with corsage of orange flowers and soft pleatings of white chiffon. Drooping from her head and falling back of her fair young face was the lace vell fastened in the hair with a diamond sunburst, given by Mr. Shaw's father. Miss Phyllis Langn her cheeks, her beautiful dark hair and eyes, formed a brilliant part of the tableau. The wedding breakfast was served in the spacious dining room across the hall. The table was ornamented with large yellow chrysanthemums. The wedding breakfast was altogether enjoyable, made more so by the bright vivacity of host and hostess.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Moncure Perkins of Richmond, Mrs. Professor Agassiz, Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Shaw, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry McRein, Mrs. Lòuisa Shaw, the widowed sister of the groom; Miss Pauline Shaw, Mr. Edward Craven, Mr. Algernon Craven, Miss Ethel Pace of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Lea, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Maury, Mrs. McCue, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, Mr. Keen Langhorne, Mr. Harry Langhorne, brothers of the bride; Miss Jones, Mrs. W. H. Jones and Miss Phyllis Langhorne.

The greater part of the wedding party will remain at Mirador for several days. The newly wedded pair took the afternoon train for Hot Springs, where they will re-main for some time. They will then visit Boston, New York and Philadelphia, returning to the home of the bride's parents for the Christmas holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will take their departure for Europe about the last of January. The wedding presents were magnificent. They came presents were magnificent. from wealthy and prominent people in various parts of the country. A pearl neck-lace was the gift of the groom to Miss Langhorne. Mr. Robert Shaw belongs to one of the best Massachusetts families and is the son of Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston, and a grandson of the celebrated Professor Agassiz, of the Harvard university. He is one of the most prominent polo players in the country and is widely known for his Andness for steeple chasing and hurdle riding. AT THE THEATERS.

At the Lyceum. "Said Pasha" was presented for the last time last evening at the Lyceum before another good-sized audience and was highly appreciated. Tonight Bizett's grand opera, "Carmen," will be sung. In this presentation the management claim a production superior to anything seen here in the operatic line. Miss Kirwin is fast becoming a great favorite with the Lyceum patrons and her every entrance is a signal for applause. She is a delightful little actress and singer and can be depended upon to give a painstaking performance at all times. Comed.an Harvey is also a favorite, as are other members of the company. men" will be sung the balance of the week. Next Monday Strauss, the Waltz King, will have his inning the opera being the "Queen's Lace Handkerchief." The policy of the management is to give two operas each week, changing the bill Thursdays. So far the business has been far above the most sanguine expectations. Comic opera at prices within the reach of all has caught on in Atlanta.

Mme. Scalchi, the most famous operatic artist in the world, and her splendid company of grand opera artists will give us the most worthy operatic entertainme have had for two years. The date of the engagement is Friday evening, November 5th at the Grand opera house. Aside from the performance of one act of "Faust" and "Trovatore," there will be a grand miscellaneous concert in which all the artists will take part. First of all there will be the greatest contralto of the age, Mme. It was put on with all the special scenery that was used when the play was given here years ago at $1 prices. It is a splendid melodrama, with a good plot, and full of wholesome comedy. The Klimt-Hearn company did the play full justice Hearn company did the play full justice. Miss Hearn's songs received numerous encores. She is a very clever soubrette and has already established herself as a prime favorite with Atlanta theatergoers. At the matinee today any school child will be admitted for 10 cents, when the great drama, "My Partner," will be given. For tonight an old favorite, "Ten l'lights in a Barroom." is announced.

Mayer's Concert.

M. Mayer. Mayer's Concert.

The concert by I. M. Mayer, the planist, assisted by Mrs. Fannie I. Leinkauf, soprano, and Mrs. Willa Holt-Waketield, will take place at the Grand opera house toright, and the large number of seats reserved indicate that the artists will be greeted by a large audience. The programme arranged is an excellent one. Mrs. Leinkauf will sing the "Shadow Dance," from Meyerbeer's "Dinora," and "I am Thine Own," from "Loin du Bal." while Mrs. Willa Holt-Wakefield will read the race scene from "In God's Country." Mr. Mayer has arranged his numbers for the plano in his usual excellent manner, and it is doubtful if any better programme has been presented at the Grand.

Those wishing to be sure of seats to this corcert should secure reserved seats early, as there will be a large crowd at the Grand tonight.

WILL DR. ROBERTS LEAVE TRINITY?

Report That He Will Be Transferred to & Another Church.

WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT IT

"The Matter Rests with the Bishop," Says the Doctor.

THE CONFERENCE MEETS IN NOVEMBER At That Time It Will Be Determined

if Trinity Will Again Receive Dr. Roberts as Pastor.

It is reported that Rev. James W. Roberts, paster of Trinity church, may leave that church to assume charge of another in the near future. Just how the rumor started is not known, but there is talk to the effect that the pastor may be transferred to another church when the north Georgia conference meets next month.

Dr. Roberts was seen yesterday and when asked about the matter he said that until the conference meets nothing can be stated positively about his future station. He said the whole matter rests with the bishop and that he could not state if he will continue to preach at Trinity. "That is a question to be determined by the bishop in conference," said Dr. Robert when asked if he will remain at Trinity. When the conference meets and the reports are examined and the whole situa tion is gone over by the bishop he will make the appointments for the next term. It will remain for him to say if I shall retain my charge at Trinity. I shall be satisfied to go wherever the bishop directs and cannot say how the matter will termi The north Georgia conference meets in

IF YOU WANT

ACARPET

It will be wise in you to look at what we have to offer. Ingrains, Brussels, Axminsters, Moquettes, etc., in all the latest designs and colorings. And for less price than most anywhere else-because we bought before the increased import duty on wool was imposed.

Everything in the way of the ever popular Ingrain-in prices, colors and designs. The first grade, all woo! and extra-heavy, is only 65c a yard Extra heavy all wool filling Ingrains, 50c a yard. Union Ingrains from 25c to 40c a yard.

Full line of dark red all wool Ingrains, made especially for use in churches, 65c a yard.

BRUSSELS.

lovely patterns and Beautiful color tones. They, too, are proportionately low priced. Discontinued patterns, 10-wire—the best quality—75c a yard.

Large assortment of Brussels Carpets-

Extra quality 70c a yard. Cheaper qualities—simply lighter in weight—55c and 65c a yard.

ART SQUARES.

The Art Square's popularity continues. And deservedly. Forcertainly nothing could be nicer at the price for stained floors, or floors already covered with matting. If your room needs "just something" to lend it the air and the reality of comfort, the chances are it's an Art Square that's required. They come in three grades and five sizes-3x3 yards to 4x4 yards, and range in all prices from $3.50 to $12, according to the size and quality. See them! They may be "the very thing you want."

For parlors, libraries, etc., the Velvet Carpet has usurped the Body Brussels' popularity. They are beautiful—and durable, too. Finest quality, with borders to match, 90c to $1.20 a yard.

DRAPERIES.

We furnish designs and make estimates for all sorts of drapery workand our designs are original and effective. All kinds of openings are 50-inch Tapestries, Velours, Brocatelles, etc., from 50c to $5 a yard, 36-inch Denims from 121/2c to 40c a yard. 30-inch Corduroys $1 a yard.

CURTAINS.

We are showing especial values in Irish Point and Brussels Net Cun tains. A very handsome pair in white or cream, 4 yards long and 60 inches wide, for $7.50.

Same thing, 31/2 yards long and full width, for $5 a pair. Another, 3 yards long and 41 inches wide, for $3 a pair.

Union Pacific Inclined to Heaviness. Balance of List Featured by Firmness.

New York, October 27 .- The stock market looked strong for a time today and the level of prices scon after noon rose a point or over above last night's close in many stocks. But a renewal of reports that the Spanish reply to the representations of this government was of a tenor that threatened trouble, caused the market to sell off to a point as much below last night's level as it has been above in the morning. This it has been above in the morning. This point as much below last night's level as it has been above in the morning. This represented a very wide range in the fluctuations, extending to 4 points in Consol-idated Gas and about 2 points or over in Union Pacific, Sugar, Pacific Mail and several other stocks and over a point for near-ly all stocks. Union Pac'fic continued to ab-sorb a large share of speculative interest. fell during the day to within 1/8 of the low point of Monday, when the government anrounced intention to postpone the fore-closure sale was regarded as threatening a collapse of the whole re-organization plan. The weakness of the stock was due to a report from sources not to the reorgan-ization interest that the increased bid for the property would involve their taking up a corresponding amount of the proposed new securities, which would have otherwise accrued in the treasury of the reorgan accrued in the treasury of the legislitzed company. This would, of course, place a corresponding proportion of fixed charges ahead of the stock of the reorganized company. The suggestion also found currency that the committee might decide to increase the issue of first mort-gages bonds above the $75,000,000 proposed notwithstanding the assertion of the re-or-ganization committee announcement of Monday that no change in the plan of refor the full amount of the government claim. Whatever the foundation for the rumor, it helped to depress the price of the stock to about what it was before the sec ond $5 assessment was recently paid.

London was also a selier of the stock today in this market in contrast to its attitude of yesterday. Arbitrage brokers in fact sold most of the international stocks while prices remained above the London parfty. Sterling exchange yielded % in the actual rate for demand bills and ½ in posted rates. Increased, amounts which wil have to be foreign interests on account o the larger bid for the Union Pacific, was the cause of the weaker tone. There was also said to be some liquidation of ex-change which has been recently purchased ing funds in London at the higher rate interest prevailing there. The statement of St. Paul net earnings for September showing an increase of over $141,000 and rumors of the heavy increase ton statement were factors in stiffening market about noon. The speculation in Burlington, was the more active, rumor being free to expand the earnings in the absence of accurate information. The stock rose at one time 1½ and there were over 40,000 shares dealt in against 43,000 in Union for use as collateral with a view to leav-

These two stocks absorbed one-third of the total transactions. Prices of railroad bonds were firm in the early dealings but eased off in sympathy with stocks at the close. Total sales $1,400,000. United States bonds were quiet and unber statement of Burlington is expected to make a wonderful showing, while insiders in Northern Pactic look for a commencement of dividends on the preferred stock. However, after the opening Union Pac.fic was inclined to heaviness, while the balance of the list was featured by firmness. Chesapeake and Ohio was active and advanced to 22, at which price operators advised purchases for a further gain.

Sugar advanced & per cent and held firm. The grangers were well sustained tractionally above last night's close. As the session progressed, buil advices increased in number and seriousness, and the morning's advantages were mostly maintained. London quotations were considered steady, although Illinois Central was down % per cent. Foreigners did comparatively little, and outsiders, it is thought, will be out of the market from now on until the election is over.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Stock Letter. Atlanta, Ga., October 27.—The stock market was strong in the early dealings occause of a favorable interpretation of the decision of the government to withdraw its application for the postponement of the foreclosure of the Union Facilic mail the recent American note on Cuban situation.

The speculation, however, was affected in the largest degree by the erratic course of Union Pacific, which declined 1/2 per cent from the opening, rallied 5@6 per cent, then broke about 2 per cent.

Chicago Gas rose about 1 point on predictiors or an early completion of the Mc-Millan deal and then last the gain. Declines of 1 per cent and over were scored by Sugar, Omaha and Northwestern, some of the anthracite coalers, Louisville and Nashville, Manhattan, Missouri Pacific, St. Paul, Pacific Mail and several specialties.
The market closed irregular and unsettled.

New York, October 27.—By Associated Press: Early cotton cables were decidedly better than expected, and as the movement in the south gave indications of dropping off, our market opened firm at an advance of 56% points. Later cables were decidedly disappointing and a reaction of 365 points followed. It was noticed that commiss on houses maintained steady buying relations through the us and downs of the market and there was a sharp demand to cover, which caused a rally of 465 points. This upward movement was accelerated by reports of yellow fever at New Orleans and elsewhere. In the afternoon the market was active and firmer on covering by local shorts who firmer on covering by local shorts who frost in the southwest tomorrow morning The market closed steady at a net ad-vance of 6@8 points.

There has been a decline of another 10 per cent in the volume of sales, and had it not been for the fact that a small number of houses engaged in disproportionately large transactions, the failing off would have been very much more striking. No one wants to buy wool at this time and no one appears to want to sell badly enough to break prices materially. Prices are very well maintained at from 263 cents to below the highest asking prices of the boom.

New York, October 27.—(Special.)—Colder weather in the south and fears of frost caused a sharp advance in the Liverpool cotton market this morning. The rise there amounted to 2½-64d and was unexpected by the traders here. Our market opened firm with prices ranging from 5@8 points higher. At the advance sellers were plentiful. When the official weather map, which showed no frost anywhere in the south, was posted, prices both here and in Liverpool gave way. New Orleans, however, bought heavily, and these orders, together with the covering of shorts, caused a recovery to about the opening prices. January opened at 6.01, declined to 5.96, advanced to 6.02 and closed at (@6.01, with the tone of the market steady. Receipts today were heavy, but the south was not offering freely. The weather bureau predicts a frost in northern Texas tonight, and this helped to strengthen the market in the afternoon.

prices of the year, the best ones bringing $50@00 each. A good stocker and feeder trade was witnessed, sales being largely at $3.75@4.25.

Texas cattle were unchanged and westerns were active and firm. There was a very good demand for hogs, sales being made early at 5 cents lower. Prices in many instances were low, but the market became firmer later on. Hogs sold at $3.20@3.50 for packers and at $3.5.0@3.85 for mixed butchers and lightweights, while pigs brought $2.75@3.80.

Sales were largely at $3.50@6.75 for hogs and at 3.40@3.75 for pigs.

Sheep were in good demand and prices ruled steady in most instances at $2.50@3 for the poorest native sheep to $4.25@4.50 for the best flocks, few going over $4.25.

Western range sheep were offered in large numbers and sold freely at $3.10@4.30, choice at $3.80@4.15. The traffic in lambs was rather animated at $4.05.75 for poor to prime flocks, with some lambs fetching $4.70@5.10. Lambs averaged 10 cents lower. Receipts: Cattle 15,000, hogs 41,000, sheep steady at $2.25@4. Lambs steady at $4.25.55. Lou sville. October 27.—Hogs active at $3.00.00.

tion tomorrow. As a consequence prices have recovered from the lowest and closed very steady at from 500 points over last evening. Receipts for the day are only moderate, being 37,107 bales, against 55,182 last week, 43,500 last year and 87,691 in 1894. The market has a better appearance than of late, and is apparently in a position to recover sharply in the event of a general frost throughout the south. Prices abroad have at last reached the low point predicted by the bears for some time past, and our more conservative correspondents are now taking a reactionary view of the market.

Atwood Violett, Lockwood & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, October 27.-Liverpool open and closed at an improvement entirely un-expected, although spot sales were small. It caught a weak, short interest here, created on the decline of the past few days, whose buying this morning put up prices considerably. Closing quotations show the advance was held, mainly because of cold rains in Texas and expectations of frost in other portions of the cotton belt. The latter, however, did not materialize. Quite a good deal of outside buying developed to-day. How far this will sustain the market, unless spot quotations are raised here and elsewhere, is now the question. The trouble at Liverpool seems to be the imminence of a strike among cotton operatives in Lancashire, which if realized would, of couse, have a depressing effect, momentarily anyhow. On declines we still believe cotton to be a purchase.

HOME SUPPLIES DECREASING

Corn Was Helped by Wheat, Oats Were Stronger and Provisions Improved a Trifle.

Chicago, October 27.-It looked for a time today as though wheat would make one of those sensational advances so characteristic of the market a few months ago. As it was December closed at a 1%c advance. Small northwest receipts coupled with light offerings started bulls on the rampage, but traders sobered down on the discovery that 2 spring wheat could not be sold for shipment at 8c per bushel lower than the December price. Corn was helped by wheat to 4.00% advance. Oats gained an equal amount and provisions improved a trifle. The influences governing wheat were as a rule favorable to higher prices at the opening. Liverpool had advanced quotations for wheat 1d per cental before trading commenced here. The predicted rain for the winter wheat section stopped west of the Mississippi and domestic receipts of wheat were again comparatively Chicago receipts were 168 cars, of which only 3 loads were of contract grade. Min-neapolis and Duluth reported 766 cars, against 887 a week ago and 1,208 on the corresponding day of the year before. The price was also helped by the shipments from St. Louis and reports of large cash business at Duluth for export. All outside markets were strong. The feature was the demand for December, houses active on the bull side for some time past, taking on considerable. May was not so eagerly sought for as it has for some days past, the consequence being a wider spread dur-ing the morning to 3%c. December, which closed yesterday at 94%@94%c, started with buyers at 94%@95c, and steadily advanced to 95%c. Offerings up to this time had been comparatively scarce, but at that price several of the large commission houses sold freely and a reaction to 95c set in. The prediction of rains for Illinois. Indiana and Missouri had some effect on the decline, as did the report that the foreigners, particularly French, were selling at the seaboard. At those figures, however, the demand again improved and the market became quite strong. Liverpool closed 1@14d higher and added to the firmness, as did the heavy exports, 681,000 bushels, of which 173,000 bushels was in flour. The market was further advanced on liberal purchases by one of the houses which sold freely on the early bulge, supposed to be for local professionals who re-placed part of a long line. Before the ad-vance was checked December had sold up to 961/2. New York reported 398,000 bushels taken there yesterday and 43 loads today. Primary receipts showed some falling off and were 37.000 bushels under those of last year. The continental markets ruled lower. Paris wheat declined 5@10 centimes and flour was off 20@30 centimes. Antwerp unchanged. No. 2 spring wheat was offered 8 centimes per bushel under the December price to United Kingdom ports without bringing a response. This fact brought the market down with a jolt and realizing be-came quite free. The report of the purchase of 205,000 bushels more, No. 1 northern at Du'uth making about 800,000 bush-els in all, destined for this market, also had a weakening influence. December was selling at 95% at the close. Corn was influenced by the big falling off in receipts and the strength of wheat and ruled strong from the start. The cash situation was a strengthening feature, the demand being better. Trading was fairly active, some investment buying being reported on poor husking returns and shorts covered freely. The market eased off somewhat toward the close. Receipts were 275 cars. Cables were 1/4@%d higher. December ranged from 26% @26%c to 26c, closing 4c higher at 26%c.

Oats were firm on moderate amount of business, shorts being the principal buyers.
The strength came largely from sympathy with other grains, a fair export inquiry existing. Receipts were posted at 208 cars. December ranged from 18% to 18%c and closed 1/40%c higher at 18%@18%c. Provisions were very quiet, the market for a time being strong in sympathy with the grain markets and on the good cash the grain markets and on the good cash business. During the latter part of the session the feeling was easier on realizing sales, most of the early a 7/ance being lost. Swanson & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Atlanta, October 27.—Indications pointed to a bull market Wednesday, and the decrease in the English visiole was again utilized as a factor, buil traders arguing that it only required a maintenance of values of our wheat to secure a prompt response from foreign purchasers. Duluth reported all but 50,000 bushels of the contract wheat at that point sold, while St. Louis wired that all contract wheat would likely be ordered for shipment to New Orleans. It also appears that we cannot maintain the present rate of exports without reducing our home supplies to the danger point. Previous to the opening wheat sold on the curb at 34%c and the official opening was at this price as compared with 51% 694%c at last night's close. Timid shorts got scared and began to cover with the customary result. December wheat advanced gradually until 56%c was reached. Realiging sales at this price caused a recession to 55%c. The market lost some of its snap, but traders were apparently satisfied with the day's transaction. A firm tone was manifest, and later the market became rather sensitive: Cable news was generally inclined to favor the buils. The market closed weak at 95%c.

Atlanta. Ga.. October 27.—The conditions prevailing in wheat today were quite builish. The news came that the market was of an insignificant volume and not important, but the speculative demand was good, influenced by the falling off in recepts, continued drought east of the Mississippi river and the very light receipts of wheat. October and December were affected the most by the strong situation prevailing, the former advancing 3%c and the atter 2c per bushel, compared with yesterday's close, while May advanced &c. The tendency among the bears has been to cover their outstanding short contracts for December and sell the more deferred futures, and as a consequence this widened the road between the two months at one time to about 3%c per bushel. We can see no part'cular reason why such a large difference should prevail. We do not believe that stocks will increase between new and the first of May. On the other hand, they are likely to be much smailer. The day's clearances were again large, making an aggregate of 647,000 bushels. Liverpool closed 1@14d higher, but Paris was 5@10 centimes lower. The market opened firm at about 95c, held steady around this figure for a short time, then advanced rapidly to 96½c, declined ½c, which was recovered, but lost again during the last hour. The advance brought out realizing sales and checked the buying which was apparent early in the session.

DESPERADO JOHN CLARK. The Career of One of America's Most Noted Characters.

From The New York Sun. There lived in this city until a few years ago, and may be living here still, a frail, careworn little woman whose life had been linked with one of the most unhappy and yet most interesting romances in the anrals of this century's crime. She was the wife of John Clark, one of the most re-markable criminals of his time. Although a thoroughly respectable, well educated and high-minded woman and a devout member of the church, she lived with him for years tried her best to reform him, sought to protect him from the officers who were ever on his trail, and was faithful to him to the end. Clark was the son of a prosperous business man in Rochester. When he was a boy he figured in all sorts of wild escapades, was arrested several times for small onenses, and had developed into a professional crook before he was twenty years ond. One of his most notable traits was his love of display. He was small and slender, with clean-cut features and black, curing hair. He always wore a silk hat, a low-cut vest, white kid gloves, and small, pointed shoes that pinched his tiny feet. He also wore several large diamonus on his hingers and snirt front. When he was still very young, but long after his reputation had nade him a terror to the town, he eloped with his cousin, a beautiful young girl, carefully reared. It was a short noneymoon. The authorities were too hot on his trail to allow him to prolong his stay with his wife, so, leaving her with friends, he set out again on his travels. From that pades, was arrested several times for small with his wife, so, leaving her with friends, he set out again on his travels. From that time until his death his visits to his wife were far apart and uncertain. He was too busy carrying out his bold plans for robbery to stay long in the town.

The other day Jalier John Cawthra, of Rochester, who knew Clark well and was present when he was hanged in that town, was in this city, and in conversation recalled the desperado.

"Clark was the nerviest man I ever saw," said the old jalier. "When he was on one of his visits in Rochester he was walking one day through the Arcade, right in the center of the town. It was crowded with paople, and they all knew who he was. With his gay ciothes and handsome face he was very conspicuous. He was walking with a girl—he was a great man for the girls—and he was twirling a cigarette in his mouth. A big, strapping man passed them, looked back into the girl's face and smiled. That angered Clark. Withour a moment's hesitation he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired. The bullet knocked off two of the man's fingers. Clark wiped the revolver with his handkerchief, put it back in his pocket, and, telling the girl to wait a monent, stopped to relight his cigarette. He was as cool as if nothing had happened. And you can bet there was no one around there who dared touch him. They knew he was John Clark and that he wouldn't hesitate to fire again on the slightest provocation.

had happened. And you can bet there was no one around there who dared touch him. They knew he was John Clark and that he wouldn't hesitate to fire again on the slightest provocation.

"Clark made a great deal of money from his robberies. He took something like $30,000 out of Mexico, most of it from a bank. He was arrested in one of the southern states and lodged in jail, but he escaped before he had been there a day. Later he was caught in this city and locked up in the Tombs. How he got out no one knows to this day. There were charges enough against him at the time to send him to pr. son for the rest of his life. There are those who know Clark well who say he made at least $100,000 by robbing houses and banks. He was, in my opinion, the most skillful burglar of his time. I well remember one night when a business man of Rochester was robbed by him. The man's house was on East avenue, the best street of the town. Clark discovered that he kept a good-sized roll of bank notes in his clothes all the time. The man was in the habit of sitting up far into the night, and when Clark appeared on the scene to enter the house he discovered the owner in a dressing gown, with his back to the window, reading. This discovery, however, did not discourage Clark. He went away and came back with a long stick, to which was fastened a string and a hook. Suddenly through the air and out of the window. He must have thought they were bewitched, for he could not see for the moment, the string and the stick. But it was no use. Clark was cornered in Rochester at last. He had just returned from one of his long tours of burglary through the country. He was seen coming out of the house where his wife lived, and two or three policemen went in pursuit of him. When they cornered him in an alley he turned and shot one of them dead.

"All the time he was in jail awaiting the execution of his sentence to be hanged his him in an alley he turned and shot one of them dead.

"All the time he was in jail awaiting the execution of his sentence to be hanged his wife was a daily visitor. She is still a handsome woman, with an air of refinement and good breeding about her. He was the coolest man I ever saw on the scaffold. He walked up the steps smoking a civarette and smiling as if he enloyed himself. Just wait till I finish this smoke and I'm ready, he remarked dryly. They let him finish it.

"His death broke his poor wife's heart. I saw her two or three years afterwards, and she was wrinkled and old, and the gray was beginning to come into her hair. She drifted to this city, and perhaps she is here yet."

tate commerce law, which is to be interstate commerce law, which is to be tried in the recorder's court some time next week, will establish a valuable precedent for southern trade, particularly in Atlanta, License Inspector Hunter entered a case ing at the station house for doing bus!ness without a license. Mr. Chamblee represents a northern firm and has been seilhosiery in the south. He has been in Atlanta some time, having taken orders bere and delivered the goods himself.

The license inspector happened to hear of Chamblee's business several days ago and catled to see him regarding a city license. Mr. Chamblee had not paid any presse and stated he was not going to He said he was protected by the mterstate commerce law and by the con-stitution of the United States, claiming former allowed him the privilege of going from state to state and disposing of Hunter could not see it that way.

He returned to the city hall and consulted with City Clerk Green. It was decided Chamblee was liable for a license and Mr. Hunter called on him again with this information. Chamblee still refused pay, stating he would make a test case and for all. Hunter therefore made a case against Chamblee on the charge of doing business without a license, and turned the matter over to Judge Pendleton, assistant city attorney, who will prosecute the defendant ext week in police court.

The law states that when a drumme or agent of any foreign firm comes to Atlanta, takes orders and allows his firm to deliver goods, he is not liable for a license; but when such drummer sells goods in Atlanta and afterwards delivers and col-lects for them himself, he must be required to pay a regular business license, Chamblee, it seems, was taking orders for him firm and delivering and collecting himself. The officials say that his trade is just the same as if he was permanently located here or was in business for himself. Chamblee, on the other hand, claims he has a right to deliver his own goods if he wishes, and stoutly refuses to pay any license.

The tax committee of council has had a great deal of trouble with just such cases, and has always charged those delivering their goods themselves. Numerous contentions have arisen along this line, and this decision, which will be an important one, will establish a precedent which will be welcomed alike by the traveling men and city officials.

Judge Pendleten is sure of winning his case. He says he has several supreme court decisions to back him, and that the law is clearly on his side. Chamblee will doubt employ competent counsel, and the legal battle promises to be a warm one. It is not so much the case itself that important, but the principle which is

HE SENTENCED 17 YESTERDAY

A Number Were Acquitted on This Day of Many Cases.

The Moonshiners from Montgomery Are Sent to Douglasville, Where

They Will Be Kept.

More moonshiners were convicted yesterday than ever before in the history of this division of the United States court.

Judge Newman called the court to order early in the morning, but held only a short session. Notwithstanding the shortness of the session, the court disposed of a greater number of cases than ever before.

Seventeen moonshiners were convicted and a number acquitted. Eight convictions a day is considered a very large day's work.
The convicted booze makers were not sent to Fulton county fail, but were consigned to Hall county jail. Only two of them were sent to board with Jailer Maddox.

The moonshiners were sent away on account of the already crowded condition of the wooden or federal division of the Fulton county jail. There are over a hundred moonshiners in the jail here. The number is constantly increasing and the officials want to reserve a little room for other prisoners who will prefer to live here while they are enjoying the hospitality of their estimable Uncle Sam.

The United States prisoners who were brought here from Montgomery caused con-sternation in the city. When they reached here night before last there was no place for them to go and the officers who had them in charge had to hustle to find lodging for them. An effort was made to get an empty house, but the owners were all afraid of the yellow fever which might be lurking in the systems of the moonshiners from the fever-stricken community. One man offered a vacant house for the sum of $10 a night. This was considered too exorbitant and was refused. the officers decided to house the moonshiners in the custom house. Accordingly they carried the fifteen men to the prisoners' room on the fourth floor and locked them up for the night. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the offi-cers took their prisoners to Douglasville and placed them in the Douglas jail.

PULLS OF THE PEELERS.

Johnnie Payne went to a restaurant and purchased a nickel's worth of Decatur street shad. When it was handed to him he began a tirade against the bill of fare and a policeman rushed in and landed the irate Johnnie in the lockup. Judge Andy assessed the damages at $15.75.

Arnnie Crew got his gun and dog to go hunting. As he was preparing to leave he took his canine into the kitchen, which made his sister mad, and she rocked the dog and tried to break Arnnie's gun. Arn-nie hit her over the eye, and that was where the policeman came in. The case had to be dismissed by the recorder Arnnie's sister wouldn't testify against him.

Emma Boyd and Mamie Langston, the two white women who were arrested in the top of Colombia theater day before yesterday, were tried before Recorder Calhoun yesterday afternoon. They had put up $10 as collateral, and as they were not present, this was forfeited. A longing for a hot weinerwurst got to buy a hot weinerwurst, and a police man overtook him and ran him in. William pleaded guilty before Judge Andy yesterday and was fined $3 and costs. George Clark stopped at a fruit stand with two friends on West Mitchell street night before last, and when the dago who sella de banan was looking the other way George hooked a basket of grapes. A man sitting in a window saw the theft and reported it to a policeman. The fruit became sour grapes when the recorder made George pay out $10.75 for them.

Bertha Thompson was thirsty Tuesday evening, and she slipped into an alley in the rear of a salcon on Decatur street and called for a glass of foaming beer. She drank it, and then started off without arms of a police officer and was interviewed by the recorder yesterday. The little affair cost her $3.75.

Train Service in Alabama and Other States Is Going from Bad to Worse, It Seems.

SOUTHERN'S BULLETINS SHOW CONDITIONS

When will the yellow fever situation change for the better? That is the question being asked by the railroad companies, the refugees and the siness men. It is conceded by all the fever cannot be stamped out until kill-ing frosts visit the infected places. With that knowledge in hand, the interests affected by the epidemic are anxiously watching the weather indications and re-ports, and all are trying to figure out that Jack Frost will visit the south at an early date. His coming will be halled with great delight by the officials of the railroads and the people of the south.

Mr. J. B. Marbury, local forecast official, of Atlanta, has been asked when, in his opinion, a killing frost will fall in the south sufficient to destroy the fever germs. He has replied, stating the facts as shown by the weather report records for years past, giving the average date on which killing frosts have fallen at several of the infected

This information was requested by Mr J. S. B. Thompson, assistant general super-intendent of the Southern railway, which road is deeply interested in the fever guestion, many of its lines being tied up and practically inoperative in the infected states. Yesterday Chief Clerk Edwards states. Yesterday Chief Clerk Edwards, of Mr. Thompson's office, in the absence of Mr. Thompson, received a communication from Montgomery from Mr. Marbury, which is interest Mr. Thompson's Letter.

The following correspondence on the sub-ject is self-explanatory. Mr. Thompson ad-dressed the following letter to Mr. Marbury:

"Atlanta, Ga., October 28, 1897.—Mr. J. B. Marbury, United States Weather Bureau, City. Dear Sir: What information can you give us, based on past experience, as to probability of frost sufficient to destroy fever germs in the districts at present infected with fever—say Montgomery, Selma, Mobile and New Orleans? Yours truly,

"J. S. B. THOMPSON."

Mr. Marbury's Rtply. To that letter Mr. Marbury replied as

"Atlanta, Ga., October 26, 1897.—Mr. J. S.
B. Thompson, Assistant General Superintendent Southern Rrailway, Atlanta, Ga.
Dear Sir: In reply to your favor of yesterday, I take pleasure in stating that our records show that the average date of first killing frost in autumn is as follows for places named: Montgomery, November 7th; Selma, same as Montgomery; Mobile, about December 1st, also New Orleans.

"I would add that there is now quite a cold wave moving in from the west and northwest, which, if nothing unforeseen at present interferes, will probably cause good frosts throughout the south by the last of this week. Freezing temperature reported this morning in northern Texas, Yours truly,

Situation Is No Better.

The fever situation with the railroads was practically unchanged yesterday. Very little business is being done in the infected states, and travel is light south and west. Trains in Alaba and Mississippi are being taken off, and if the situation continues to grow worse the railroads will soon be unable to move business at all. The Southern officials sent out bulletins yesterday showing the state of affairs in Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee and other states in the fever belt. The following extracts from messages received at the office of Mr. S. H. Hardwick, assistant general passenger agent of the railway, indicate the devlopments in the

"Captain Pegram, of the Memphis and Charleston, advises they can receive no freight for Arkansas points coming through Memphis, except for Little Rock, except such freight as is incapable of carrying infection. No points in Arkansas or Texas, except Pine Bluff and Helena, have quarantined against passengers coming into that territory through Memphis, provided they hold clean certificates."
"Yesterday the Chattanooga board of health took action, quarantining against Atlanta. This was rescinded in a little while, however, and persons from Atlanta can enter Chattanooga if in possession of health certificates. This is the same regu-lation heretofore, in effect.

"Mr. Wickersham, superintendent of the Alabama Great Southern at Birmingham, advises passenger trains 3 and 4 have been discontinued between Birmingham and Me ridian. Everything else operated as per schedule, but Nos. 1 and 2 make no stops between Birmingham and Meridian on acount of local quarantine regulations." The Southern's Latest Bulletin.

The Real.

When the steward of the Tuileries Palace was exhibiting the new upholstery, with praises and demonstrations how glorious it was, and how cheap withall, Napoleon, making little answer, asked for a pair of scissors, clipt one of the gold tassels from a window curtain, put it in his pocket and walked on. Some days afterwards he produced it at the right moment to the horror of his upholstery functionary; it was not gold but tinsel. In St. Helena, it is notable how he still to his last days, insisted on the practical, the real. That's the controlling element of the beautiful display of diamonds now being made by J. P. Stevens & Bro. at 7 and 9 West Alabama street. They do not sell imitations of any kind-everything genuine and only of high grade while their prices are much more reasonable than elsewhere. If you are contemplating the purchase of a diamond ring, the worst extravagance that your can commit would be to make you purchase before examining the stock of J. P. Stevens & Bro.

A WONDERFUL CURE. Gainesville, Ga., Oct. 12, '97.

Africana Company, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sirs: Eleven years ago had a bad case of rheumatism and the veins in my legs bursted. Since then my legs from my knees down have been covered with running sores. I have tried every remedy fever refugees who are pouring in on every known, and physicians have given me almost everything in an effort to effect a cure, all to no avail. Two months ago I began taking Africana and have taken nearly three bottles. The running sores on my legs are rapidly healing, and I have thrown aside my crutches, being now able to walk without them. Africana has already done me worlds of good, and I believe in a short time I will again be entirely sound and well. Very gratefully yours, THOMAS WALKER.

WOULD DOUBLE TRACK FOR TWO BLOCKS A SPLENDID MUSICAL PROGRAMME, ALSO

Petition Will Be Presented to Council at Session Monday Afternoon. Will Improve Line.

The street on the site of the old artes an wood avenue, may soon be spl.ced by electric car tracks.

The Comma Park and Belt Railroad Company, better known as the Chattahoo-chee River Railway Company, has filed a petition with City Clerk Will Greene r permission to extend their tracks from he present terminus at the corner of Forsyth and Walton streets down Waiton to Peachtree and south on Peachtree to Ma-It is the object of the company to move their terminal closer in the heart of the city. For years their passengers have been compened to wark several brocks out of the way to catch a river car in front of the First baptist church. The company only asks for an extension of two blocks, but as to whether the petition will be granted or not is speculative.

The petit.on will go before council at the next sess.on Monday afternoon, That body will probably refer the matter to the committee on electric and other railways and the street committee. These bodies will held a joint session and report back at the next session of council. The street car company wishes to lay double tracks from Forsyth street to Peachtree and down Peachtree to the terminal, which would be about on the spot

of the old artesian well.

They contemplate the obstruction in the streets on account of the erect on of the Grant building on Broad and Forsyth streets and ask that they be allowed to lay one track at once and the other later, as soon as the building is completed. The company further requests that if they are not allowed to lay double tracks, they will be content with one track. They need a place, however, to switch their cars and cannot give the public as good a service without the same. The Chattahoochee company is contemplating a general improvement along their line. Their schedule will be changed, the track will be made stronger and the cars more comfortable. The service is already good, but the officials say they will give the best in the city, "I see no reason why this petition should not be granted," said a city official yesterday afternoon. "The Chattahoochee road has been cut off from the center of the city for a number of years, having not had the advantages of the other street car companies. If they can get more passengers by running down to Peachtree street, let's give them the right of way. It is nothing more than justice."
